Sheriff Accused of Malfeasance, Extortion

Sheriff Walter F. Young was accused of extortion and malfeasance late yesterday in a series of motions filed in Contra Costa Superior Court by Robert Condon, attorney for ousted Civic Division Chief Ruth Rathke.

The charges are made in a writ of mandamus aimed at Sheriff Young demanding he show cause why Mrs. Rathke should not be returned to her former position.

CONDON CHARGES:

"1. Mrs. Rathke was demoted to communications clerk and the demotion did not follow set civil service procedures.

"2. On January 1, 1959, shortly after Young assumed office, the sheriff asked Mrs. Rathke to cooperate with Raymond Van Tassle andthe County Improvement League, the said non-profit corporation.

The County Improvement League was the vehicle to obtain monies from persons, including persons engaged in illegal activities, in Contra Costa County and also including persons involved in pinball activities for his 1958 and 1962 campaigns.

"YOUNG IN EFFECT extorted monies from these persons who violated the law," Condon's charges continue.

"Mrs. Rathke was subponaed before the grand jury August 4 and charged malfeasance on the part of the sheriff," Condon declared.

"Young publicly threatened her with reprisals. This demotion is a reprisal," Condon concluded.

Mrs. Rathke has been demoted by the sheriff to the position of communications clerk, but she still retains her salary of $710 a month.

When Young came into office in January, Mrs. Rathke was confidential secretary to the sheriff. Young put her in charge of the civil division, a step down, but she retanied her salary.

Now she is making nearly twice as much money as her fellow communications clerks.

Mrs. Rathke was a key figure during the grand jury investigation into vice and gambling in the county and she testified under subpoena for two hours behind the closed doors of the grand jury.

Condon stated that should his writ be granted by the court, the sheriff would have to either prove he does not have to return Mrs. Rathke to her old job, or return her to her former position.

Sheriff Young will be represented in the action by George Gordon of the Martinez law firm of Collins, Carlson, Gordon and Bold.

The charges from Condon came on the heels of what seemed to be a truce between the Contra Costa Sheriff's Office and the State Attorney General's Office. (See separate story.))

Condon is also the attorney for indicted union organizer Charles F. Cooper.

Cooper's trial has been set for October 27 in Judge Wakefield Taylor's Court.

Cooper was indicted by the grand jury following 30 hours of testimony for allegedly attempting to bribe Contra Costa's District Attorney John A. Nejedly.

Cooper is out on $20,00 bail. He had been released by the Contra Costa Sherrif's Office.

Vol. XVII, No. 30 | Friday, Oct. 2, 1959 | CL 4-4343 | Lafayette-Orinda | Ten Cents

ABOUT 30 PERSONS attended a surprise retirement dinner last Monday night for Mrs. T. C. Kendall (center), long time Orinda postal employee and first postmaster of the Orinda Post Office after it became a separate entity in 1945. Mrs. Kendall is congratulated by E. J. Doyle, assistant Orinda postmaster, while Postmaster Laura Mallary looks on. Mrs. Kendall, a resident of Orinda since 1917, retired as of Wednesday. —Sun photo by Mattson.

Orinda Postal Employees Honor 1st Postmaster

The employees of the Orinda Post Office gathered for a pot luck dinner Monday night in honor of Grace L. Kendall, clerk, who retired after 15 years in the postal service.

There were 30 people present, including wives and husbands and friends of the employees of the Orinda office.

MRS. LAURA G. Mallary, the postmaster, opened the program for the evening by telling about Mrs. Kendall's earlier years in Orinda.

Mrs. Kendall came to this area in 1917. She was one of the first teachers at the community's one-room school located on Wildcat Canyon Road.

After leaving teaching, Gracie remained active in school affairs, becoming the president of the Parent Teachers Association and a school director.

DURING WORLD War II she began her postal career by delivering one of two rural routes serving what is now the Orinda area from the main post office of Berkeley.

In 1945 she became a clerk in a station established in Orinda as a branch of the Berkeley Post Office.

In the latter part of 1945 Orinda was established as a third class office and Mrs. Kendall was named acting postmaster.

DUE TO ILL health Mrs. Kendall resigned as postmaster and in 1946, when Orinda was advanced to second class, she returned to the postal service as a clerk.

Gracie has witnessed the Orinda office grow from receipts of $8000 to the present $128,000 and from two rural routes and one regular clerk to nine mounted routes and four regular clerks.

The employees of the Orinda office presented Gracie with a cashier's check to help her defray the expense of a trip she will take with a long time resident of Orinda and a very old friend, Mrs. Lillian Dorrington.

Five Directors To Be Elected

Members of the association will elect five directors this year and there will be four carryover directors.

THOSE WHOSE SEATS will be up for election are Donald M. Anderson, Arthur A. Pedersen, E. F. Hockenbeamer, David Young and Harry Booth.

The bylaws of the association call for not less than two nor more than four nominations to be presented for each of the open directorships between October 15 and November 1.

Banker Dies During Trip To Europe

Services are pending for Wilport (William) Polk, 61, vice president of the Orinda branch, Central Valley National Bank, who died September 24 in Rome.

Mr. Polk, a resident of 6 Broadview Terrace, Orinda, had left for Europe about four weeks ago to attend a Rotary International convention in Cannes, France.

The cause of death has not been determined. Cremation was held, and services will be held at the Chapel of the Chimes, Oakland, on arrival of the ashes.

Mr. Polk had been in the banking business most of his life since gradaution in 1916 from Whittier High School, Whittier, Calif.

At one time he was credit manager for the Rheem Manufacturing Company in Richmond, and had worked for the company in New York and Chicago.

He was also a member of the Orinda Rotary Club and the Ahmes Shrine, Oakland.

He had been looking forward to his European trip for many years, and the convention began a few days after his death.

LAST YEAR, he personally arranged a class reunion for Whittier High 1915 and 1916 graduates, and received a letter of congratulations from Vice President Richard Nixon, who is a Whittier High graduate.

Mr. Polk was born in Texas.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gloria M. Polk of the same address, a daughter, Nancy Stanford of Danville and a son, Robert W. Polk, now serving in the armed forces.

Two Arrested In Vice Raid

A bartender and a pinball machine player were arrested on charges of gambling September 24 when sheriff's plainclothes vice investigators said they witnessed a $15 payoff for games won on the machine.

Bernard E. Grona, 37, a steelworker of 4031 Hope Avenue, Concord, was identified as the player.

The bartender is Mel L. Aberg, 39, of 135 Roslyn Drive, Concord. They posted $250 bail each the next morning.

Vice investigators Art Hagist and James Steffensen arrested the two at the Four Corners Bar, 1100 Monument Boulevard, after watching Grona play the multiple-play machine for about a half hour.

They said he ended his play with 150 free games on the machine, walked over to Aberg and told him he had 150 dimes coming.

They said Aberg handed him $15 from a drawer in the back bar. They arrested the men before the games could be canceled off the machine. It was impounded.

Orinda Ass'n. Opposes Meaning Of "Profession"

Is the operation of a title insurance office a profesion?

The directors of the Orinda Association took exception Monday night to the recent ruling by a county official that it can be determined as such.

RICHARD BARTLE, planning committee chairman of the association, on noting that a title insurance office is planning to move into the Thomas Professional Building near the Crossroads, wrote to the county to determine if it is legal.

The Thomas building is zoned R-A by the county, and was constructed under a county land use permit for professional purposes.

Thomas Heaton, county director of planning, replied that the use of the word "profession" is "wide and open," because the County Board of Supervisors, in granting the land use permitted, excepted only real estate offices.

HE QUOTED FROM the definition of "profession" in Webster's Student Dictionary, "That which one professes; the occupation if not commercial, mechanical, agricultural or the like."

The Webster New Collegiate Dictionary has the same definition for the word, but continues, "The three professions, or the learned professions of theology, law and medicine."

Directors of the association passed a resolution in which they took exception to Heaton's "liberalization of the term "professional" to include other than that which is the generally accepted meaning of the word as being against the original stated intent of the builder, specifically, in relation to the location of a title insurance office in the Thomas Professional Building."

Copies of the resolution will be sent to the planning commission and the proposed tenant, who was not named.

Moragans Name Rex Collings To Represent Them

Residents of Moraga, disturbed over the proposed precise zoning of the 8773-acre area now before the county planning commission, have named Rex Collings their official representative for Tuesday night's public hearing on the zoning.

The hearing, the second of two to be held on the question, will be before the planning commission at 8 p.m. in the Hall of Records, Martinez.

COLLINGS, A MORAGA resident and professor of law at the University of California's Boalt Hall, was selected at a public meeting Wednesday night, which was attended by about 100 of the area's residents.

Sleepy Hollowans Hear Both Sides Of Issue

By LARRY GLAZIER

"Ineffective . . . extravagant . . . impractical."

These were some of the terms used Wednesday night to describe what some Sleepy Hollow residents think of the proposed incorporation of the area.

ABOUT 350 HOLLOW residents attended the first public meeting on incorporation, held at the Sleepy Hollow School, and the session turned out just as intended — a forum for the presentation of both sides of the argument.

The meeting was moderated by Jack Helms, a Hollow resident who stated repeatedly that "I'm neutral — I haven't made up my mind how I'm going to vote."

A public hearing on the proposed incorporation will be held before the County Board of Supervisors at 10 a.m. October 20.

SO FAR, a group of a few Hollow residents have been the only ones involved in the incorporation attempt, having formed a committee early in the summer to block the extension of certain roads in the area by incorporation.

Petitions for an incorporation election, signed by about a third of the area's residents, according to Fred Rust, one of the committeemen, were filed in Martinez early in September.

ONE RESIDENT at Wednesday night's meeting, who did not identify himself, said, "We've been jeopardized without having been consulted," and was greeted by a great amount of applause.

The statement was made after the man learned that the mere filing of the petitions four weeks ago constitutes an "incorporation attempt."

Rust told the group that the committee took an informal poll among about half of the residents along Lombardy Lane, and when 95 per cent of those people were in favor of incorporation, "We looked at it as a mandate for some sort of action."

HE SAID that in the opinion of the committee, the only incorporation issue is roads and that Hollow residents must answer three questions — "Can we control access to Sleepy Hollow, how much will it cost and is it worth it."

"In time, the area will develop and the roads will be extended, particularly if we relax on our patios and do nothing. This will change the character of our community and will increase our policing problem," Rust stated.

Miss Cynthia Knox, principal of the Sleepy Hollow School, said a road passing the school "would jeopardize the safety of the school's students, but what is done to solve this problem is up to the residents of the Hollow."

THE PRINCIPAL added that regardless of how an incorporation election turns out, the school district will not be affected, unless the City of Sleepy Hollow chooses to set up its own school district.

Tom Ferguson, a practicing attorney and past president of the Sleepy Hollow Improvement Association, discussed legal rulings concerning the feasibility of putting barricades across Lombardy Lane, thereby blocking the access of the recent purchasers of the 300-acre Blum-Levy lands.

Ferguson said the title to the land is now in the name of Claude Lindsay of San Mateo, but Ed Freidlander of Oakland, who announced plans for a country club and executive home development recently, said the plans are the same as announced initially, and Lindsay is one of the partners in the group which purchased the land from the East Bay Municipal Utility District.

THE HOLLOW attorney said the barricading is legal, and that property owners whose land abuts the street to be barricaded must be paid compensating damages if their access is removed. He indicated that the land to be subdivided does abut Lombardy Lane.

Ferguson admitted, in answer to a question from the floor, that the city might be liable to a law suit if the abutting property owners choose to sue.

He recommended that the city leave the road open, but control the proposed widening.

CECIL CANTRILL reported on "How much will it cost?" based on figures obtained from the county administrator's office. He said road maintenance, which includes only patching, costs an average of $1800 per mile per year, and there are about six miles of road in Sleepy Hollow.

Cantrill added, "When disasters or catastrophes such as floods or slides happen, they usually happen statewide."

Don Anderson, another committee member, presented a $25,400 annual budget for the proposed city, based on a tax rate of 25 cents per $100 valuation. He said, using $5,000 as the average assessed valuation, incorporation will cost each Hollow property owner $12.50 per year.

HARSH WORDS against incorporation were spoken by Charles Gibbs and Everett Ham, who offered protest forms to the gathering after the meeting.

Gibbs said, "The budget figures are vague. We're being fools and we're being taken in. The power to tax is the power to destroy."

Ham stated, "If we incorporate, we're buying ourselves a law suit."

Federal Agents Close El Nido Bar, Restaurant

Federal tax agents closed the restaurant and bar of the El Nido Rancho in Lafayette Wednesday afternoon, but they had to wait for 250 women to finish a fashion show in the establishment before the padlocking could be effected.

The Internal Revenue Service acted against Nido Incorporated for the firm's failure to pay withholding taxes to the government, according to agents in the Richmond office.

NIDO INCORPORATED and its president of record, Evans Bargmann of Lafayette, are the lessees and licensees of the restaurant and bar at El Nido.

The real property and the hotel portion of the Tunnel Strip favorite are owned by Edmund S. Barnett, Walnut Creek attorney, who announced that the padlocking will not affect the hotel operation.

Basis for the federal action is the non-payment of two tax liens against the corporation, totaling $9,743.90, according to Jack Baker, group supervisor for the IRS's Richmond office.

THE FIRST lien, in the amount of $5,176.62, was filed February 27, 1958, and the second, amounting to $4,567.28, was filed July 14, 1959. Both are matters of public record and were filed in Martinez.

According to Baker, the liens were filed because Nido Incorporated was retaining withholding taxes for its employees' pay checks, but was not forwarding the taxes to the federal government, as required.

He explained that the money withheld from the employees will be credited to their accounts, and that means the government must suffer the sting of the non-payment.

This decision was reached early this week, he said, and because the Kensington Area Republican Women's Club had made plans for a large luncheon-fashion show at the location Wednesday, it was decided to allow this function to be held.

All other events planned at the El Nido in the near future have been cancelled.

Peace Pipes Pass, Doves Fly as Sheriff, State Meet

"The sheriff of Contra Costa is cleaning up the county and it soon may be the cleanest in the state," said Clarence Linn, assistant attorney general in San Francisco Monday.

"But," he added, "the attorney general's office will keep a watchful eye on the entire situation."

LINN COMMENTED he was happy about the reports which had been turned over to him by Sheriff Walter Young, Undersheriff Rarry Ramsay and Attorney George Gordon of Martinez, Young's lawyer.

Young and Ramsay promised the job of cleaning up the county would be accomplished and Contra Costa law enforcement will be a model for the rest of the state to follow.

Linn pointed out that misunderstandings between the two agencies had been ironed out and that Young's department would give full cooperation with other agencies in keeping the county clean.

The meeting in San Francisco was called by the attorney General's office to check what progress had been made by the sheriff's office in fulfilling the recommendations of the county grand jury.

Charles O'Brien, chief assistant attorney general, criminal and law enforcement, who was not present at the meeting, said the attorney general's investigation would "maintain a status quo for the time being."

Gordon, after the meeting, commented "a mutual understanding has been reached between the state and the sheriff."

Jet Ace's Widow Travels to Rites At Michigan Base

Mrs. Iven C. Kincheloe Jr., 85 Meadow View Road, traveled to Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, last weekend to attend impressive ceremonies redesignating Kinross Air Force Base to Kincheloe Air Force Base, in honor of her late husband.

Capt. Iven C. Kincheloe Jr. was an Air Force double-jet ace and famed test pilot who hailed from Cassopolis, Michigan, and was the only jet ace from Michigan.

THE CAPTAIN, who was a leading candidate to be the first man into space, was killed July 26, 1958, when he bailed out of a crippled F-104 fighter aircraft near Roasamond. He is buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

A Sault Ste. Marie newspaper led the move to rename the base in honor of Kincheloe. The site is undergoing a $40 million expansion program.

Mrs. Kincheloe, who has two young children, took part in the ceremonies and appeared on radio and television in Michigan while she was away.

Harry Booth, treasurer of the association, said, "This affects everybody who lives from Glorietta Boulevard south. The Moraga area is contiguous to Orinda. We want this whole area to be residential."

President Donald M. Anderson urged all interested persons to attend the public hearing on the Moraga proposal Tuesday night, and he said the association will have representatives there.

Moragans Name Rex Collings

were more than 15 members of the Orinda Association, including Donald M. Anderson, president, Richard Bartle, planning committee chairman, and Harry Booth, association treasurer.

Collings told the group he studied the Moraga proposals with several of his colleagues at Boalt Hall and with the city and regional planning department staff at U.C. and determined there are only four alternatives for Moragans in the matter.

A GENERAL PLAN for Moraga and the adjacent area, a good portion of which is owned by the Utah Construction Co., was adopted by the county planning commission May 13, 1958.

About a month ago, the county planners began studying a proposed precise zoning plan, which Moragans maintain is not in keeping with the general plan of 17 months ago.

Prior to listing the four alternatives, Collings criticized the county's policy of having general plans adopted by the planning commission and not by the board of supervisors. He added the zoning would have to be approved by the supervisors.

THE LAW PROFESSOR stated, "The law requires that the supervisors pass a general plan, or it is not a general plan."

Collings' first alternative was for the restriction of the present general plan and the proposed precise zoning to provide for proper insulation of controlled manufacturing and residential areas.

He said this should include adequate architectural and landscape controls by the county and provisions in the precise plan for schools and recreation areas.

SECOND, COLLINGS suggested that the county planners remove all mention of controlled manufacturing from the plan and study the possibility of a large planned shopping area.

He said this shopping center should include department stores and be designed to attract shoppers from Orinda, Lafayette, Moraga and the Oakland-Piedmont areas which will be opened up by the Shepherd Canyon Freeway.

This plan, Collings stated, might reduce tax rates where controlled manufacturing would not.

THIRD, THE LAW professor said, Moraga could be kept a residential area of primarily low density population with a provision for only those shopping areas required for the Moraga area.

If the ultimate population of the area, he stated, is to be 50,000, then one acre per 1000 population, or a total of 50 acres, would be ample.

The fourth alternative, which Collings referred to as "the rape of Moraga," is to do nothing.

Those at the meeting then took a vote on each of the alternatives, and voted in favor of the third one, which also was Collings' personal recommendation.

THE THIRD ALTERNATIVE received 85 votes, the first received three and the other two failed to obtain any.

Collings said, "The notion of controlled manufacturing reducing taxes is pure hogwash. We have enough commercially zoned land in Alameda County alone to serve the entire area for 50 years."

Orinda Church Lists Series of Public Meetings

The dilemma facing the present-day Christian will be discussed in a series of four public meetings beginning at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Orinda Community Church.

Titled "The Christian in the Mid-20th Century," the series is sponsored by the Orinda church as its annual Christian life series.

THE FIRST meeting of the series will be led by Dr. Burton Moyer, professor of physics and a senior physicist with the University of California's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory. His theme will be "Science and the World Today."

On following Wednesdays, speakers will be Dr. Philip W. Confused About Publicity? You'll Find Answers Oct. 20

Do you find it at your new task as publicity chairman of your organization has you completely terrified?

Have you questions as to why some of your publicity releases have been cut in size from three paragraphs to one paragraph?

HAVE YOU EVER considered the problems of public relations as they relate to your group?

Would you be interested in sharing your views on publicity and public relations with others who have similar problems and ideas, and with professionals in the field?

If the answer to any of these questions is affirmative, then you will want to come to the Publicity and Public Relations Workshop being held by The Sun at Acalanes High School October 20 at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria.

The purpose of the workshop is to help iron out any difficulties publicity chairmen and presidents of organizations may have regarding publicity and public relations.

BRIEF OUTLINES will be furnished all attending showing the proper presentation of copy, some general hints on style and preparation of material, and above all, how to get your material presented in the way you want it, when you want it.

"We fully realize the difficult task that faces most publicity chairmen and most organizations who depend on mass media such as newspapers to acquaint the public with their functions," commented Sun Publisher Herman Silverman.

"With this in mind we have planned this meeting to see if members of our staff can't share some of their know-how with those who face the task of preparing material during the coming year.

In this way we hope to make your job easier, and possibly make yours a pleasant experience instead of just 'another job'."

The workshop will deal with questions such as these:

"Why doesn't my material get in the newspaper?"

"Why did you cut my story in half"

"Why can't you run another picture for us? This is a big event!"

AND WE'LL BET you have a lot of other questions, too. There will be real live editors and reporters on hand to share their fascinating experiences with you, and you are invited to bring your problems and complaints.

They're getting a new lease on good living. November 1 is moving day, when they go into their new Lake Royal apartment-home. Right now this couple is selecting a dining room suite. Their choice is traditional, but actually, any style fits perfectly into the Lake Royal. That's one reason why so many people have made up their minds to buy a Lake Royal apartment-home. Location is another reason. The Lake Royal is Oakland's most convenient address, as well as one of the finest. Assemblyman Lincoln Will Address AAUW Members

L. H. "Abe" Lincoln, formerly speaker of the Assembly for many years, will address citizens and branches of the American Association of University Women of Central Contra Costa County on the California State-Wide Water Program.

This meeting sponsored by the Orinda branch of the A.A.U.W. will be held Tuesday, October 13, at 8 p.m. in the Glorietta School Auditorium.

DETAILS OF the main Northern and Southern California features of the proposed state water development system as passed by the legislature...

Final decision on the aqueduct system, including many features in the north, will be made by the people of California at the November, 1960, election when they vote on the $1.75 billion bond issue intended to finance the construction.

Lincoln was first elected to the California Legislature in 1948, and has authored important legislation on highways, education, aid to the senile and mentally retarded, etc.

HE WAS FIRST elected speaker of the lower house, considered by the politically informed to be the second most influential political office in the State of California.

The speaker is a member of the State Public Works Board concerned with the planning and allocation of construction funds for all the various projects financed with state funds.

He is a member of the Board of Regents of the University of California, the State Disaster Council, and several of the joint Senate and Assembly committees.

THE PRESIDENT of the Orinda Branch, A.A.U.W., Mrs. P. D. Bush, urges members of other branches and representatives of civic organizations to attend. Interested citizens of the community are cordially invited.

Mrs. Percy B. Dawson Jr., program chairman, announced that arrangements for this program are being made as a special study of the social and economic issues section, headed by Mrs. Curtis L. Newcombe.

Juror Changes Her Mind

A lady has a right to change her mind, hasn't she?

At least, attorney Mike Huffaker thought so, when one of the jurors seemed to hesitate when polled at the conclusion of a drunk driving trial in the Walnut Creek Judicial District Court.

Huffaker called for an individual polling of the nine women and three men when a guilty verdict was returned for Gerald Gietzen of 4796 Myrtle Drive, Concord, arrested April 23 by the Highway Patrol.

One lady juror when called upon to confirm the group's guilty verdict pronounced "guilty" so softly it could hardly be heard, and when asked to speak up, she cried out, "I never have believed he was guilty!"

Judge Betsy FitzGerald Rahn and the audience were taken by complete surprise, and Judge Rahn after a few comments announced that a mistrial had resulted.

The jury had been out nearly six hours, at the conclusion of the three-day trial. Deliberations began in the middle of the morning. Lunch was served, and the deliberations ran into the middle of the afternoon.

12 Classrooms Will Be Added To New Del Valle

Acalanes High School District trustees this week approved a low bid of $283,850 for construction of classroom additions at Del Valle High School in Tice Valley.

Low bid was made by James E. Robert Co., the same firm that built the original Del Valle units.

Eight bids ranging from $14,000 between the high and low were received.

NEW CONSTRUCTION to start in October and reach completion by next summer will provide twelve new classrooms, five new science labs, two art and crafts rooms and five general classrooms.

In other action trustees:

Approved appointment of Axel Rasmussen, as district transportation supervisor, replacing Roland Coad, deceased. Rasmussen has been acting supervisor for several months.

Approved plans submitted by the music teachers of the district for an Acalanes District Music Festival, May 21, at Miramonte High.

THE FESTIVAL will feature vocal and instrumental productions by students from the four district high schools — Acalanes, Del Valle, Miramonte and Las Lomas.

Approved employment of two additional teachers at Miramonte to meet enrollment increases there in excess of anticipation.

Trustees discussed an evaluation study conducted last year at Las Lomas High. A similar self-evaluation study is being held at Aacalanes this year, with one scheduled for Miramonte next year.

In keeping with their policy of "observing the schools in action whenever possible," trustees stated they hoped to visit two district schools in session this week.

DISTRICT SUPERINTENDENT Neil M. Parsons reported a change in trustee election procedure as passed by the recent legislature. Under the new law governing trustee elections, elections will be held every two years on odd numbered years.

As a result the next Acalanes District trustees election will be held in 1961.

Biggs to Speak To Park Council

Reginald H. Biggs, prominent Bay Area business leader and president of the White House, will be guest speaker at the Contra Costa Park and Recreation Council's Seventh Annual Dinner at the Diablo Country Club on Wednesday.

His talk, "Parks are Good Business," will point up the Council's 1959-60 theme that a modern park system will be valuable to all segments of the community in Contra Costa County.

Officers and Board of Directors of the Park and Recreation Council will be elected at the dinner meeting. Founded in 1951, the Council is a citizens' group working with county officials to form a county system of regional type parks. During the past year the County's Master Plan for Parks was completed and the hiring of a Park Director was approved by the Board of Supervisors.

WHO IS THIS Lucky Commuter? Whomever he is, he has $8.75 in prizes waiting for him at The Sun. A $5 check and a year's subscription to The Sun, valued at $3.75, will be presented to him if he drops into any of The Sun's business offices and identifies himself. —Sun photo by Dave Ogden

W. Kirkham Gets $8.75 For Picture

W. G. Kirkham, 3386 North Lucille Lane is $8.75 better off this week than he was last week at this time.

Kirkham was last week's Sun Lucky Commuter and was presented a $5 check by The Sun and his subscription to The Sun was extended for one more year. That in itself is another $3.75.

Each week, a picture of some commuter in the central county is printed in The Sun and this lucky person is given a $5 check and a subscription to The Sun.

It's easy and it's fun to watch for the Lucky Commuter — who knows—this week it may be YOU.

First Aid Course on Tap

A standard first aid course will begin at Acalanes High ... Thursday. The class will be taught by Red Cross Volunteer Arlin Raycroft of 1801 Oak Park Boulevard, Walnut Creek.

This instruction is being jointly sponsored by the Acalanes High School District, and the Greater Mt. Diablo Chapter of the American Red Cross, but is not a part of the adult education program.

'Every Good Guy Gives' United Crusade Theme

Communities and towns throughout Contra Costa are 'dressed up' with posters, push/pulls, marquee messages, and other promotional material following kickoff date Monday for the 1959 United Crusade drive, according to Dana Murdock, county campaign chairman.

Posters featuring 'Peanuts' wearing a halo, which has been donated by his creator Charles Schultz will carry the slogan "Every Good Guy Gives."

"Our slogan "Every Good Guy Gives," isn't just a wish. It's a privilege. It is a great opportunity for every citizen to get that wonderful inner feeling that comes from carrying his own fair share of community responsibility. One gift serves 52 county agencies that perform countless charitable acts every single day," Murdock pointed out.

"In terms of need, cost and sociological unity, the Crusade is a vital community insurance policy. The price of this policy is simply to give a fair share.

New Safeway Store Opens In Concord

Concord's new Safeway store, located on East Street and Willow Pass Road, will open Wednesday with special ribbon cutting ceremonies at 8:30 a.m., according to C. O. Jensen, local district manager for the firm.

This store will be managed by Vern Van Gerpen, veteran Safeway manager. His supervisory staff will include Merle Gingles, assistant manager; Nick Backovich, meat department manager; and Bob Tibbetts, produce department manager.

"MOST OF THE staff of 36 employees are residents of Concord and are all Safeway experienced men and women selected for the assignment to this store on a basis of proficiency of job skills and outstanding customer relations," Jensen stated.

The store layout provides aisles varying from six to ten feet wide for ease of shopping, and the very latest in fixtures and equipment as a means of further reducing food cost to the public and speeding service to shoppers.

Bishop Pike Will Attend St. Stephen's Services

In an historic and colorful ceremony, the Reverend C. Corwin Calavan will be formally instituted as rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Orinda, by the Right Reverend James A. Pike, bishop of the diocese of California, at a service at 4 p.m. Sunday at the church.

Lay members of the parish will participate in the ceremony, as will many of the clergy of the East Bay churches, who will form a procession. This will be the first such service to be held at the Orinda church.

THE KEYS to the church will be presented to the new rector by William Effinger, senior warden, and the lessons will be read by Herman Pfeifer, junior warden, and the Reverend William R. Pothier, associate pastor.

The formal Letter of Institution will be read by the Reverend Dr. Philip Daunton, rector of St. Michael's and All Angels' Episcopal Church, Concord, who is dean of the Central Contra Costa Presbytery.

FATHER CALAVAN will be the third full time clergyman to serve the congregation at St. Stephen's.

The first was the late Reverend Charles Hill, who was vicar at the time the present church structure was built. He was followed by the Reverend Albert Lucas, who saw the mission attain parish status and was its first rector.

Also participating in the service will be the senior choir, which will sing as an offertory anthem, "Rejoice in the Lord Alway" by Purcell. The choir is directed by Philip Treggro, choirmaster and organist. A reception in Hill Memorial Hall will follow the service.

High Holy Days For Jews Begin At Sunset Today

Commencing at sunset today, world-wide Jewry will celebrate Rosh Hashana, the religious New Year.

The Holy Day, which marks the year 5720 according to the Hebraic calendar, also begins a 10-day period of prayers and penitence which are concluded on Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, starting Sunday evening, October 11.

THESE HIGH Holy Day services, considered to be the climax of Jewish worship, stress some of the most important Jewish ideals. The prayers include the recognition of the sovereignty of God, supplications for the realization of the brotherhood of man and for the arrogance and oppression from human life.

Just as the holy days stress the collective hopes of the people, so do these days emphasize the individual's responsibility in seeking the improvement of human conditions.

The 10-day period is set apart as one of serious reflection and introspection so that man can evaluate his actions, take cognizance of his errors and seek forgiveness through prayer and through rededicating himself to the task of building a better world.

THE THEMES of the improvement of personal conduct and man's power to attain moral betterment are present in the hymns, the liturgy and sermons which commemorate these holy days.

Orthodox and Conservative Jews, in accordance with tradition, observe Rosh Hashana for two days; Reformed Jews, following Biblical precedent, only one.

Local services will be conducted at the Contra Costa Jewish Community Center, 3800 Mt. Diablo Boulevard, Lafayette. Rabbi David Robins will officiate and he will be assisted by Cantor Henri Goldberg and the choir.

Rosh Hashana evening services shall be held at 8:30 p.m. today; morning services at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Church Guild Hears Authoress Tuesday Night

St. Perpetua's Guild will meet Tuesday at 8 o'clock at St. Perpetua's Church, with Mrs. William Sanford presiding.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. William Hatch, Archdiocesan chairman of family and parent education, National Council of Catholic Women, and a member of the Governor's Committee for the White House Conference on Children and Youth.

MRS. HATCH'S subject, "The Sex Education of Children," is based on her magazine article, "The Sex Taboo."

She emphasizes the role of parents as the primary and most important teachers of children in sex matters, and the need for concomitant moral training.

"Parents must be educated, too," Mrs. Hatch points out, "for the privilege of educating their children. Not only must the spiritual significance of sex be emphasized, but parents must be ready to answer frankly and accurately even the toddler's questions. Actually, such education for the child begins in infancy with his observations of his parents' attitudes."

A brief question and answer period will follow.

ALSO ON THE agenda is the final planning for a dozen bridge luncheons to be held in as many homes on October 22.

Members of the guild are urged to bring their missals to the meeting as instructions in the Missa Recitata will be given by the pastor, Father John Quinn. Mrs. Maurice Martinez is in charge of refreshments.

On Thursday, October 8, at 6:30 p.m. there will be a potluck supper to be followed by visitation from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

A VERY important event for Covenant men throughout Northern California is the Covenant men's retreat at Mission Springs October 9 through 11.

This will feature Louis Zamperini, former Olympic athlete, as speaker. Phil Kerr and Tony Fontane, outstanding in the field of Christian music, will be bringing inspiration in song.

At the evening service of October 11 Louis Zamperini will be speaking at the Lafayette Covenant Church. Zamperini is well known as the University of Southern California track star who set the mile record in the 1936 Olympics in Germany.

LATER HE won acclaim for tearing down Hitler's flag from the Reichstag in Berlin.

Another Forgotten Series Of Events...Let's Hope Not!

Sometimes events, even if they are of a serious nature, have a habit of becoming forgotten after a short period of time.

When these events require action by a public body, sometimes it is convenient to have them forgotten.

And when these events affect every man, woman and child in Contra Costa County, it becomes important that they are not forgotten.

It becomes important that they be kept in prominence until action is taken, and that action is found satisfactory by the people, who, after all, are running the government—not vice versa.

SUCH A SERIES of events has transpired over the past few months with the sheriff's office at the hub, and involving the grand jury, the attorney general's office and the district attorney.

The present grand jury came out, a few weeks ago, with a list of recommendations regarding the operation of the sheriff's office. Many previous grand juries have made similar recommendations, but seldom has any action followed these reports.

It is important that this does not happen this time . . . important to all of us and to the county.

Therefore, it is pertinent that we ask this question:

"Why hasn't the sheriff taken action on the recommendations of the grand jury?

A LOT HAS HAPPENED since these recommendations were originally made. But so far as can be ascertained, the only real change that has been made in the sheriff's office is the transfer of Mrs. Ruth Rathke from the sheriff's own office to the communications department.

This question becomes even more critical in the light of the fact that the sheriff was "invited" to appear in the attorney general's office Monday to discuss the problem.

Now, if anything, those suggestions as made by the grand jury were lenient as far as the sheriff and his organization are concerned. It is ridiculous to think that the attorney general's office must ride herd on our sheriff to see that these recommendations are heeded.

The recommendations, incidentally, included such practical suggestions the provision of adequate and competent vice control officers; that the sheriff rid his department of certain . . . personnel who have not conscientiously performed their duties; that the department be reorganized, etc.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS are plain common sense, and certainly some results of such a reorganization, and similar policy changes, would be visible by now had the sheriff complied with the grand jury's request.

The attorney general's office should be commended for staying on top of this situation until it is cleared up. But certainly we, of Contra Costa County, cannot be too proud of ourselves when a state agency is required to step in and clean up some of our problems.

In all fairness, it should be pointed out that some of these recommendations were aimed at the board of supervisors, such as the suggestion that a complete survey of the sheriff's office be made by an outside agency.

This could be done by the board, and this action in itself might help clear the fog surrounding the whole mess.

The grand jury should certainly be complimented for its action in this matter, and should also keep a close eye on the situation during the coming months.

THIS BODY HAS extensive powers, and cannot be ignored by an office holder without the threat of serious action, which the grand jury can take if it so desires.

These agencies which follow the situation, which help protect us against inefficiency and worse in our governmental office, must be commended for doing a good job, and are urged to keep up the good work.

In the meantime, we are waiting for visible signs of action from the sheriff, and the board of supervisors in the matter of a survey of the department.

What's in the Attic, Mom?

Seen any good grass fires lately?

That comment would be enough to get you thrown out of any fire house in the county, and with justification.

We are now finishing one of the hottest, dryest summers California has had for a long time, and even the downpour we had recently hasn't removed the fire hazard by a long shot.

There's lots of dry, brown grass covering our hills, and until we get a series of nice wet rains, the danger for fire will continue.

NEXT WEEK is National Fire Prevention Week, and this seems like a logical opportunity to throw a few bouquets out, along with a couple of warning words.

All of us did pretty well this summer. We didn't have half the grass fires we might have had, and we certainly came off well in the light of the terrible fire record that California as a whole suffered.

And each of us who lives in the area can take part of the credit for this. It means that we weren't careless with our matches and cigarettes.

It means that we were careful with our burning and that generally we didn't go around acting like a bunch of frustrated arsonists.

Sure we had some fires, and we were haunted by that old devil—fires started by kids playing with matches.

WHILE WE'RE THROWING bouquets, let's toss one the way of all the fire department personnel, who really must have sweated out this summer. They stayed alert, and when they were needed they responded with alacrity.

Now, about that warning.

Remember, an attic makes a fine depository for all that stuff that's really too good to throw away, but that you don't want around the house.

It also makes a dandy place for a fire to get started. How long has it been since you took a good look at your attic? Is it a possible fire hazard?

If it is, you'd better get in and clean it up, because it's a lot better to get rid of a little junk than it is to start house hunting in your bathrobe at about 3 a.m.

WE ALSO SEEM to be particularly prone to stuffed garages in our area. A garage on fire makes fine kindling for a house, too, because the house is usually attached.

So while you're looking at the attic, you might just take a glance at the garage, too.

Awareness of the problem is half the battle. The other half is seeing that your home doesn't welcome a disaster.

While it's fire prevention week, why not take a look around for potential hazards around your home, and avert disaster before it strikes you.

There's no time like right now.

The Futility of Walnuts

By LARRY GLAZIER

Ah yes, that time of year is here again.

The Walnut Festival is again a thing of the past, bringing home, for one and all to see, the fact that it is time to harvest walnuts, whether few or many.

This year, the neat little shower which drenched the area two weeks ago jumped the gun on the walnut growers and, with the sun shining brightly the last two Sundays, a drive through the residential neighborhoods would have proven that the harvest is here.

Everywhere you went you could have seen husbands and wives crawling around on their knees under the various trees and you could have heard the descriptive sounds of walnuts hitting roofs, patios and just plain, old-fashioned ground.

Walnut trees have the facility of growing relatively close together while still producing large crops, which leads us to the unhappy realization that even if you have only one acre of walnuts, you might have quite a few of the delicacies laying around on your property.

Most small landowners, those who have walnut trees for beauty's sake and so that they can have all of the nuts they need for the holiday season, have tried every method for cleaning up the remainder of the crop — including entrepreneurship.

Let's look at the situation of a family with the unlucky number of 13 trees on the property.

To have walnut pickers come to the home, shake the trees and pick up the nuts and then to have them hulled and dried at a walnut house requires a fairly large overhead expense, particularly in light of the fact that the hulling and drying cost is based on "wet weight," while the crop is sold on the basis of "dry weight."

Well anyway, this particular family experienced a loss last year because of a diseased crop, and swore never to use the lazy-man's method again.

This year, with baskets in hand, we joined the sore muscles brigade. (I think the muscles are sore because of an inconsistency in use — first, they are required to reach to the heights of the skies to shake the very top branches, then to the depths of all the leaves they have just finished piling on the ground).

Except for the fact that it is silly to waste all those delicious nuts and realizing they must be picked up somehow, I think this procedure is all very futile, primarily because I am sure we have a great deal fewer nuts this year than last — and we may, once again, lose money.

Now that the bulk of work is over, and we're about ready to sell our crop, it isn't so bad — the muscles are losing their soreness, we haven't had any overhead costs and the crop is a tasty one.

But there's no telling what might happen next year, when we have to go through the same process again.

We Like It Here...

Don't throw it away . . . It's back in style!!

By MARIE MONAHAN

FALL is in the air. It is the New Season & Everyone is fashion-minded.

The swimsuit phase is passe & now we must have SOMETHING new to match the crisp clean look & feel of Fall.

The first nippy morn, a man cases his closet, gets out the old gray flannel & feels smug that the salt & pepper tweed has lasted so long.

NOT SO the Lady! With a woman, My Glory, it's another story!

The first day the furnace is on, the Lady looks in her closet & wails. She peruses the fashion pages. She is picking up ideas.

This is preliminary to picking Papa's pockets.

(We pick up our ideas in the slick assortment at the Doctor's office. It is cheaper that way & think of the magazine-money we save!

ANYHOW . . . we study the fashion pages & learn a lot.

The Russian influence is with us. The hats are furred, high & handsome & we'll all look like Anna Kareninas. Yes, fur & leather is the latest thing for Fall.

It will be a most discomforting time. One is itchy, the other is cold.

The classic camelhair coat is with us. Still, again & yet.

But we HAVE a camelhair coat. Hanging at home, 10 years old, pockets out, cuffs frayed but as faithful & sturdy as old Ironside. No Sale.

HOW about something to keep our gams warm, good saleslady, please? Something plaid & sporty? So it's out with an armful of slacks, the Slick Fit — guaranteed not to bust when you bend over.

Tsk . . . Tsk . . . reminds us that the slacks at home are patiently waiting for that Stitch in Time, just one button or a new zipper.

AFTER a dainty dejeuner of lettuce leaves & coffee (The power of suggestion—trying on the new slick slacks!) we go forth to seek more fashions.

Ah, the Fall hues. The colors of Autumn. Half-sad, half-glad! They GET us!

It is a sentimental time. Like When You & I Were Young, Maggie & all that sort of thing.

The Autumn shades bring to mind, particularly susceptible matronly ones, a rush of fond mem'ries. Of football games & pennants waving, college days & carefree times. The days of using Mother's charge account!

IT IS THE Soft Sell, Salesclerk!

Let us not stir up old Sentiments. Let us just see some sweaters to wear while doing wifely chores. Like washing the car & clipping the hedge.

The sweaters this year are chic & shaggy. Itchy & baggy, too!

The fancy ones are framed with fur. These are NOT to wash the car in—not unless Madam has a Mercedes & must, by all means, ALWAYS look modish!

Shades of Old Siwash! Argyles are making a comeback & here's a striped one like the one we have at home. (The children think I got it as a member of the Yale Football Team. That is what their Father tells them & they are too young to know any better!)

A model slinks across the floor, like a Siamese Cat, wearing an elegant gown with a trailing hemline. THIS, the buyer informs, is absolutely the LATEST. On the best authority. From Paris.

It just HAPPENS to be a look we've had for years!

We once had to hem a lace skirt & it came out crooked. It has ALWAYS had a dipping hemline.

Before we were just an amateur seamstress. NOW we are the picture of High Fashion.

We are home to patch the clacks, mend the sweaters & put new pockets in the old Camelhair.

But we won't do a THING w/the uneven hem on the lace skirt. Who will EVER notice?

Letters to The Editor

INCORPORATION OR—?

Dear Editor:

The opponents to the proposed incorporation of Lafayette have a right to their viewpoint. It is better to approach a problem knowing the many pitfalls that must be overcome or sidestepped. If the criticism is justified then I hope it sets forth a better alternative.

Self-government is fundamental to both sides. County or local control is the question. I believe that a community of 20,000 persons should make its own decisions instead of the county with four of its five supervisors living many miles away.

THE COUNTY has many highly trained technicians but their decisions are not necessarily based on what the community wants but on rather what they believe the community should have.

The incorporation study report shows that Lafayette can have local control without raising taxes. There is $120,000 unallocated to provide for contingencies or revenue losses.

If a community of our size cannot have local self-government because the county and state governments are making it impossible because of a tax rate that is already too high, then we all should start to take a look at what's happening to an inherent possession. I don't believe this to be the case.

THE COUNTY is on record to help towns to incorporate by continuing to maintain many major roads, providing services on contract and to assist the communities in any possible way so that they may have the benefits of the many thousands of dollars of state monies that only go to incorporated cities.

It would seem from all the studies made that until a better plan is put forth incorporation can better solve the problems of a growing community and provide a safer and better place in which to raise our family.

TED BARCELON.

Turn Off the TV, Dad, It's Bad for the Kids

By HERMAN SILVERMAN

How does your television set work?

I'm happy to report that our TV set at home is working rather poorly. It presents a wonderful picture for 5 or 8 minutes; then we get a marvelous display of vertical and horizontal modern art. We then have to get up and click the dial to pick up the wonderful picture again.

Isn't this annoying?

Yes. It is wonderfully annoying—it discourages the kids and us from watching spectacular TV. If we do watch, it means we really, really want to see the program. And certainly there are a few programs that are worthwhile.

That is why we had the TV set fixed a week ago.

From bad to a little better

Yes, it was repaired. Formerly it didn't work at all; now it works part-time, as described above. We plan to leave it in its present condition.

One day during the summer our wonderful TV went on the blink. That evening something new happened in our household. The kids didn't mention TV; they didn't seem to care. For the heck of it, moma, papa and the three Silverman bears sat on the carpet and played cards. We had fun.

For weeks the kids said not a word about missing TV. We continued tennis, golf, baseball, swimming and general outdoor messing around until dark. Then, we played games, read the paper, had some family competition for a grand prize.

(I wish I could report the kids read hundreds of books. Frankly, we had library books handy, but they weren't used very much. Any suggestions?)

Good for parents, too

Eleanor and I suddenly found we were reading more. After the kids were put to bed, we used to grab some reading material (newspapers, trade journals, magazines, books, etc.—usually piles of it) and prepare for an evening.

But I would almost always turn on the wonderful TV set. No, I didn't plan to watch it; but let's leave it on in case something good was featured. Yes, I would read and watch TV at the same time!

During the summer and past weeks, we suddenly realized that TV had become a drug for us, as much as the kids. We turned it on by habit—good or bad program. This certainly sounds stupid, I admit, but it is true.

We purposely did not call the TV repairman during the summer. We do not plan to call him now. We enjoy our family group more. We are doing more things together for a few minutes in the evening. We are reading and concentrating on what we read.

The kids catch on

Incidentally, at summer's end, the kids finally started asking an occasional question—when was the TV repairman coming? We just kept stalling. I honestly believe we wouldn't have had it fixed at all, if it were not for some of the news and special events and sports programs.

Let me point out that we have always been relatively strict about the kids' watching TV. None on school night —period.

I hastily add that I am not a snob about TV. There are some wonderful programs; but unfortunately not enough of them. (We can't pick up Channel 9, so I don't know the entire story).

Even after the TV was "fixed," it isn't played very often.

The first Sunday night it worked was two weeks ago. The kids and I were having a double solitaire tournament. Soon we were watching the Jimmie Durante super-spectacular! And soon—we had stopped our games.

Do you know who suggested watching TV? Mark? Dan? Janet?

No, I confess. I was the one!

WC Women Give Standing Ovation

In the friendly and informal atmosphere of a luncheon meeting, members of the Women's Club of Walnut Creek and their guests heard their state vice president, Mrs. Earl Hazelton, speak on the new meaning of Federation.

Mrs. Hazelton said, although club women enjoy many activities, the Federated clubs are primarily service organizations and even their social events are apt to have a philanthropic purpose.

With 75,000 members in California and more than seven million in the United States, they are the largest women's organization in the world, and as such have tremendous responsibility and an exceptional opportunity for accomplishment, she said.

Receiving a standing ovation at the close of her talk, Mrs. Hazelton expressed her gratitude to the Walnut Creek club for a donation in her name to the Foundation fund.

Dental Auxiliary Plans For Social October 10

As the time grows short until their "Saturday Night Social," the women of the Auxiliary of the East Bay Dental Societies are industriously decorating the boxes that will hold their suppers for two with the hopes of winning a prize for a humorous, original or beautiful design.

The affair will be October 10 from 6-1 p.m. at the Elks Club in Walnut Creek. To add some competition to the affair a professional auctioneer, Elliott Schubb of the Lakeshore Auction Gallery in Oakland, will auction the boxes off.

As an added surprise 24 of the boxes will be starred and mystery prizes ranging from a $100 men's watch to a 53-piece set of china will be given away.

After supper everyone is invited to dance to Jimmy Howard's Orchestra.

The proceeds go to the student loan and scholarship fund.

The keynote is informality and good old fashioned entertainment. Mrs. R. L. Matkin, Jr. of Concord has asked Mrs. James Trezona, also of Concord, to be her co-chairman for planning decorations. Mmes. Matkin and Trezona report the whole affair will take place in a western corral complete with bales of hay and cowboys.

Mrs. Louis M. Ellis of Concord and Mrs. Ronald G. Light of Lafayette are co-chairmen of the event. Other committee members are Mrs. K. G. Holcombe, flyers, Mrs. William M. Sheeran, door prizes, Mrs. G. F. Warren, tickets and Mrs. David S. Tittle and Mrs. Carl G. Buechele, publicity.

For those who were in need of help, Mrs. Donald Priewe and Mrs. Douglas Franklin, both of Danville, presented samples of decorated boxes at the regular meeting of the auxiliary on September 25 at the Claremont Hotel.

PART OF THE DECOR of the "Diablo Decorama" will be this antique platter held by Mrs. Ridgway Woodburn of Diablo, left, and Mrs. C. Wadsworth White of San Ramon. These ladies and Mrs. Kenneth Richardson of Diablo are the "Decorama's" co-chairmen.

Partygoers Enthusiastic At First Muir Benefit

By MARIE MONAHAN

Gentlemen guests got a good look at what the ladies will be wearing this fall when high styles from the Joseph Magnin San Francisco store were modeled at last Saturday's benefit party for the John Muir Memorial Hospital.

For many of the men in the crowd of over a thousand, it was their first fashion show and the comments, both amusing and astute, were worth eaves-dropping on.

Sponsored by the newly-formed women's auxiliaries (all of whose members held their breath anent the weather), the very posh party dusk in the pastoral setting of the Saranap estate of the senior R. Stanley Dollars. The balmy weather kept its promise of thirty-three years without rain to make it a true "Evening Under The Stars" as the ladies had so themed the evening.

Silhouetted against the handsome hills surrounding the country home, the cars coming up the long drive as dusk settled early . . . parking attendants taking over the wheels as guests stepped out at the entrance to the tree-studded grounds of the tranquil Tice Valley home.

Under the weeping Willows (you had to duck if you were tall!) a table of committee members, Joan Howard of Walnut Creek sharing welcoming honors with Myrl Farley and Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Ackerman. A walk up to and around the house by the light of the torchieres, here, well-filled tables flanking the long runway in the garden. At front-row seats near the ramp stairs, the Mel Nielsens with Alameda guests, the Charles Sargents (she's Irene of the fashion world) and the John Lindbergs.

The promenade of fashions starting promptly at eight-. . . The crowd titillated and talking about the Russian influence evidenced in the fur astrakhan hats . . . Judy Rosenthal, petite blonde wife of Orinda medic Joseph Rosenthal, a show-stopper in a coutourier costume, a dramatic coat and sheath of gold satin, yellow as a buttercup.

GARDEN GLIMPSES . . . Ruth Young chatting w/Hal Bates, both their spouses home nursing a "bug." John Nejedly and Bev and Bill Anderson of Alamo joining them for a toast. Tall in the crowd, the Frank Malleys, Irene's teal-blue satin dress with pumps to match . . . The Robert Andersons and the J. L. Joneses of Walnut Creek with the Keith Halls over from Pleasant Hill.

On the lush carpet of lawn, a brisk business for the bars set up at strategic corners . . . Medic Marvin Epstein, the Carl Newburys, Dr. and Mrs. Irving Fien with the Frank Strickers of Oak Grove, the Lester Grogans of Orinda. Applauding the models were the Glen Hansens, Jim and Nancy Bender and the Jim Lennoxes, Oak Grove neighbors, all going on later to Oakland for dinner.

UNDER THE STARS . . . Angus & Eloise McLeod of Orinda (her pretty pumps of print satin) chatting with the Don Doyles, both couples in the contingent of dinner guests later at the John Farleys of Happy Valley who entertained for many town guests as well as the Mel Neilsens, the aforementioned Sargents. John Farley and Harmon Howard had the pleasant task of presenting each model with a white gardenia nosegay at the conclusion of the show.

Decor of tubbed cypresses studded with white gardenias, the artistic touch of Barbara Lindsay in charge of decorating . . . Virginia and Ed Barnett chatting with the Jack Marchants, the foursome having handled properties for the evening—mirrors for the models and myriad details . . . Dr. Frederick Hanson making introductions.

Strolling the grounds, the Robert Hoyers with the Wendall Parkers, both of Pleasant Hill . . . The Ira Gunns, John Spattas, Mrs. Elbert Volcke, sampling hot hors d'oeuvres. The dance music of Gordon Heche's group wafting through the warm evening. Ed and Ruth Laine of Danville checking up on the ticket booths they chairmaned . . . Dr. Don Sterns chatting with Bud Leiber of Orinda . . . Medics Alan Ory, William Flood, Herbert Packard, Robert Pringer noted in the throng with their wives . . . The Carl Helmholzes of Lafayette.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold Robinson, Bruce Copeland, the Irving Fines in a group . . . Going on to The Gaslight House for a late dinner were Dr. and Mrs. James Eldred, Dr. and Mrs. Norman Portello, Dr. and Mrs. Christopher Saribalis, and the David Colemans who were joined THERE by Dr. and Mrs. James Fitzsimmons of Walnut Creek.

Chi Omega Club Plans House Tour Here Tomorrow

Chi Omega East Bay alumnae have planned their annual fall benefit as a house tour in the Orinda-Lafayette area tomorrow from 1 to 4 p.m.

Proceeds from the tour and tea will go to the East Bay Association for Retarded Children (EBARC) for the establishment of additional nursery schools and the continuance of present schools and workshops with new equipment and facilities.

This will be the only event scheduled by local Chi Omegas to raise funds this year.

Alumnae President Mrs. G. Wesley Malkson of Montclair has appointed Mrs. James W. Gustafson of Lafayette as general chairman. Mrs. Igor R. Blake of Lafayette is in charge of house selection and decorations, while Mrs. William C. Johnson of Oakland is serving as chairman of tea hostesses.

Although tickets will be available at the five decorator homes to be visited, advance reservations and tour maps may be obtained from Mrs. William T. Selby of Oakland, OLympic 4-4526, or from Mrs. Gustafson, ATlantic 3-8661.

Mrs. Blake has announced that the following five houses will be featured on the tour:

The Mark Noble house at 6 Crane Court, Sleepy Hollow, Orinda; the bachelor residence of Leslie E. Carlson and Ralph E. Lestikow, 10 El Campanero, Orinda; the Malcolm C. McKenna house, 4142 Canyon Road, Lafayette; the Alan F. Kelsey house, 4055 Happy Valley Road, Lafayette; and the last house on the tour, where tea and coffee will be served from 2:30 to 4:40 p.m. is the home of Mrs. Borroughs Hoover, 4081 Happy Valley Road, Lafayette.

Diablo Decorama Begins; Fashion Events Planned

"Diablo Decorama" at the Danville Hotel is now open to the public from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. daily through October 11.

The unusual decorators' show sponsored by the Mary Doyle Unit, Mt. Diablo Therapy Center, was previewed Wednesday night at a gay champagne party for the unit's members and guests.

The bare, long-unused rooms on the second floor of the historic old hotel were offered by the Unit to Bay Area decorators who accepted the challenge and transformed them into a variety of interiors.

Guided tours of the rooms are conducted daily by volunteers from the Unit.

As added attractions, two art exhibits feature the works of Svensto (Gertrud Stockton) of Diablo and paintings by Walter and Margaret Keane of San Francisco.

DURING A luncheon hour from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m., Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, there will be a casual showing of fall fashions from Joseph Magnin's.

Models will be Mrs. Samuel Abbot, Jr. of Diablo, charter member of the Mary Doyle Unit; and associate members, Mesdames Robert Livermore, San Ramon, Thomas Lowry, Alamo; Albert Rubey, Diablo and Lloyd Bradhoff, Danville. Reservations for the luncheons should be made at the Danville Hotel.

The Diablo Decorama was planned and executed under the direction of Mrs. Ridgway Woodburn of Danville, Mrs. Kenneth Richardson of Diablo, and Mrs. C. Wadsworth White of San Ramon.

The eleven rooms on the second floor of the old hotel have been decorated as follows:

Room 1: Andreasens of Oakland, with decor by interior designers Barbara Maynard and Francois Albert: "Vignette of a Guest Room, Done in Federal Transition."

ROOM 2: K. H. Lengfeld, A.I.D., of San Francisco.

Room 3: Jacksons interior designer, James S. Styles.

Rooms 4 and 5: by Helen Wright of Mauerhan's, Berkeley.

Elenor Davis of Orinda Room 6. William Collingwood of Danville, Room 7.

John Wheatman, University of California lecturer on interior decoration, Room 8.

ROOM 9: By Down Interiors of Orinda.

Frances Mihailoff, A.I.D. and associate, John Hodgson, of San Francisco, Room 10.

"Foyer en Jaune," by Lee Carroll Mohs of San Francisco, Room 11.

Tickets for Diablo Decorama are available at $1.50 each, at Joseph Magnin Stores, at the Danville Hotel, or from Mary Doyle Unit ticket chairmen, Mrs. E. A. McIntosh, Alamo, Mrs. John Keeling, Danville, Mrs. Russell Wilgus, Danville. Proceeds will further the rehabilitation work of the Mt. Diablo Therapy Center.

Children's Home Society Plans Dessert Bridge

Wealthy scarecrows will abandon their usual listless porture and demeanor to happily come alive and present one of their fellow "bird frighteners" in the role of a "money tree."

This is but one of the fabulous prizes ($25 in crisp one dollar bills), to be won when Hansel and Gretel Chapter of the Children's Home Society of California opens the fall season with a dessert bridge, which promises to be one of the most colorful events of the new season.

Mrs. F. E. Rossi and Mrs. E. E. McCluer have created a typically fall harvest theme.

A weekend for two at the lovely La Playa Hotel in Carmel is another prize offered by our "burlap buddies of the corn field," who are ready, able and willing to be taken home by the lucky winners.

The boat house situated in the center of the lovely Lake Merritt area will be the locale, time 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday afternoon.

Donation is $1.50 and all proceeds as always go to the Children's Home Society of California to further the work being done in child adoption.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the following numbers: ATlantic 3-8586 or OLympic 8-0618.

The Children's Home Society of California is a member of the Bay Area United Crusade.

Big One Set for Pleasant Hill

-Sun Sports-

Acalanes, Knights, Mats Face Pre-Season Elevens

Top prep game today, the third week of the young grid season, will find the Pleasant Hill Rams invading Piedmont under the lights before what is expected to be a full house.

The Rams, who play in the Contra Costa Division of the Diablo Valley Athletic League, have played and defeated San Ramon and Acalanes of the Foothill Division.

IN PIEDMONT, they meet a top club that has coasted to a pair of wins over Oakland and Fremont.

Both clubs are loaded with veterans, but have different types of offenses. The Highlanders have a fast backfield that goes for the long gainers, while the Rams tend to grind it out with hard line play, with fulback Roger Faulk keeping the middle of the line busy.

Piedmont is reported in top shape, while the Rams have lost first string defensive guard John Turney and center Mike Erickson due to injuries suffered in last week's Acalanes tilt, while guard George Bruns is a doubtful starter because of a pinched nerve.

RAMS' COACH Hal Briggs has been working hard all week to replace Erickson, with Pete McMillen, Roger Levy, Les Bush, Ron Thorpe and an Acalanes transfer, Dave Sutch, all getting a crack at the spot.

In the event Bruns is unable to go, Doug Euranius will get the call, and at 138 pounds, it could create defensive problems.

One of the interesting duels will be between the fullbacks—Roger Faulk for the Rams and Bobby Jones for Piedmont. Both were all league fullbacks last season and it will be interesting to see how they stack up.

Steve Hogan, Piedmont's sophomore quarterback who was sidelined last week, may be ready, and he could provide an added aerial threat.

Dons-Red Devils Tilt a Tossup

The Acalanes Dons play Diablo at Concord tonight, and have their hands full if they expect to take their second win of the season.

They played an "all out" game last week, but fell short in the scoring column.

IN THE Red Devils, the Dons are meeting the defending Contra Costa champs, who are undefeated this season, having toppled Tech High of Oakland and then trimmed Tennyson High of Hayward, 25-19, while rolling up a fantastic 460 yards.

Both clubs will be battling for possession of the perpetual trophy, which is awarded the winner of each year's game.

The Dons came out of last week's encounter with Pleasant Hill without any injuries, and Coach Bob Stevens announced that the only lineup change will find Tom Strain getting the starting call at quarterback, working the first and third quarters, with Don Nelson at the helm in the second and fourth periods.

Veteran end Steve Lientz, recently returned to the squad, is expected to see plenty of action.

Cougars May Be Tough For Locals

Coach Bob Brooks over Miramonte way managed a smile early thi sweek despite a loss to Pacifica, when the visitors scored with just more than a minute left on the clock.

The Matadors, according to observers, played their best game in the last two years and showed some sharp blocking and tackling, along with a potent aerial game.

THE ONLY CHANGE for this afternoon's game with Albany's Cougars finds Randy Corsi, a 150-pound junior, moving into the right guard spot.

Jim Botto and Jim Boyd, a pair of large tackles, were out early in the week with the flu, but were expected to be back in harness well before game time.

Albany was edged by El Cerrito last week, 7-6, in a heartbreaker, and could prove to be a tough nut to crack.

The Matadors are looking up, but still have the depth problem, with only 22 on the varsity squad.

Las Lomas Favored Over Alhambra

Las Lomas, as Coach Duane Louis put it, got into gear last week while shellacking John Swett, 33-0.

Experimentation has been the order of the day for the Knights and further changes are set for tonight's Alhambra game, with Dick Couch, a 165-pound junior, going at left end, Mark Leidig, a 195-pound junior, getting the call at a tackle spot and Gary Dill, a 170-pound senior, set at center.

ALHAMBRA HAD lapses in its game with Castro Valley as the Bulldogs lost, 20-0, but they also showed signs of definite improvement.

Big gun in the Bulldog attack is hard-running tailback Robert Greene, who relies on straight ahead power rather than finesse.

Fullback Mike Hair looks to be the key to the Knights' running game, which Coach Louis hopes to get into high gear before league play officially starts in two weeks.

Hockey Opens at Rink Tomorrow

Tomorrow is a red letter day for the 90 boys who have been participating in the East Bay Junior Ice Hockey League over the past two years.

Once again the Walnut Creek Ice Rink will be buzzing with activity at 7:30 every Saturday morning with a group of boys who have found ice hockey to be a very exciting sport.

Any boys between the age of 8-14 are cordially invited to come down to the rink and prove to themselves what fun they can have.

Skates and complete uniforms are furnished by the league. The league is a parent-controlled nonprofit corporation. A nominal monthly charge is made to cover ice time and replacement of uniforms.

Inter-league games will be played as the teams are formed. A boy does not need any skating experience. A roster of very fine coaches, made up of former hockey players and some players that are now active in the Northern California League teach the boys to skate and all the fundamentals of the game.

CALIFORNIA MOTORISTS

California has 8.6 per cent of the nation's people of driving age and slightly more than 10 per cent of the naiton's motor vehicles, reports the California State Automobile Association.

CAR COUNTRY

Almost half of all vehicles in California are registered in Los Angeles and Orange counties.

It is surprising to see how fast the boys advance, and leagues are now operating in Stockton, Palo Alto and Los Angeles. Several other cities around the area are considering starting their own leagues.

Any boy that is interested can contact the rink or come down tomorrow for the first sign-up for this season.

HARDTOP HI LITES

Richardson, New PH Ace

By JEAN McGUIRE

Gil Richardson, the newest member to join our home town hardtoppers, drove his best race of the season Saturday night at Contra Costa Speedway in Pacheco.

The jovial blond chauffer from Pleasant Hill piloted his way expertly to the checkered flag in the final heat and the semi main event. He was also within a gnat's nose of winning the first heat, following Wayne Estes of Walnut Creek.

WINNER OF the second heat was Clyde Castro of Sacramento, followed by Gary Street of Concord and Herb Williams of Walnut Creek.

Johnny Franklin tok the honors in the second heat. Second was Doe Payne of Concord, and third was Bob Fillipi, Mill Valley.

In the last fourth heat it was, Nelson Snow, San Pablo, Don Taylor, San Jose, and Leroy Geving of Petaluma. Johnny Franklin won the trophy dash.

Behind Richardson in the final was Herb Williams, Bob Fillipi, and Don Taylor. Also behind Richardson in the semi were, Buzz Castignetto, Richmond, Glenn Todd, Alameda, and Doe Payne.

PLEASANT HILL Mayor, Jack Clayton drove a beautiful main event, alternating between second and first positions for most of the race.

Yellow flags were thrown three times, bringing the pack close behind him again each time. In the 23rd lap Clayton took a turn wide and dropped to fifth place.

He finished in this spot behind Ted Gratriex, Napa, Leroy Geving, Gene Dudley, Napa, and Chet Thompson, Oakland. The Mayor jumped six positions up the point ladder in one night of racing.

Diablo, Orinda Golf Scores Posted; Doten Explains 'Babe' Tourney Rule

In answer to many inquiries received, Contra Costa County Chairman Don Doten today clarified the rules to govern the first annual Babe Didrikson Memorial Golf Tournament to be played October 16-25, inclusive, at nine golf clubs of the county.

"Anyone can enter the tournament, since handicap scores will be used," Doten said. "Golfers without established handicaps will be rated by the Calloway system. Contestants may enter as many times as they like, posting their lowest score in the competition," explained the chairman, who also is president of the Orinda Golf and Country Club and a prime mover in outstanding central Contra Costa golf tournaments recently.

PLAYERS WILL pay $2 to enter, with male contestants playing "against" the score of Ken Venturi, and women golfers playing against the score of Jackie Pung.

These two top performers will play in a foursome with Harvey Ward and a nationally known celebrity figure, to be announced later, on the final day of the memorial tournament. All proceeds from the contest will go to the American Cancer Society.

Prizes will be awarded to all local residents who beat the scores of the pros. Tickets to enter the tournament, established by the nation's greatest woman athlete who became herself a victim of cancer, may be obtained now at any of the nine club participating, Doten said. These are:

Tilden Park Golf Club, Richmond Golf Club, Orinda Country Club, Pittsburg Golf and Country Club, Meadowbrook Golf Club, Contra Costa Country Club, Antioch Golf Club, Mira Vista Country Club and Diablo Country Club.

THE $2 ENTRY will give all ticket holders admission to the gallery of the exhibition match October 25, at San Francisco, the Contra Costa chairman said. All proceeds will go to support the research, lifesaving public education and service-to-patients programs conducted by the American Cancer Society.

Three Cs Can Be Used For Cool Season Color

California's wonderful winters are wasted on many gardeners. They take the Eastern outlook that winter is a season for dormancy and seem content to ride it out without planning a cool-season color palette.

If you are one of these, drop in at the nearest sign of the California Association of Nurserymen and let the proprietor put you straight.

THE LIST of color suggestions he can give you is arm-long and contains something in every size, shape and color. And you can bet it will contain the three we want to talk about here.

We call them the three C's of cool season color — cyclamen, cineraria and calendula. Each can bring its own special brightness to your winter garden.

The calendula—pot marigold—if you wish—blooms at any season here, but it reaches perfection in winter and early spring. The tendency to mildew which warm weather encourages is absent and both plant and bloom are attractive.

CALENDULA OFFERS the brightest winter color —. vivid shades of lemon and orange in a big showy blossom you can't miss. Plant in sun.

Colorwise, cineraria is calendula's opposite. Its shades run to blues and purples or lavender. But it, too, has eye-catching brightness to recommend it.

Stellata variety is taller and more profuse, but the more compact hybrid forms boast better size and color range. Choose a shaded area for planting.

THE DELIGHTFUL cyclamen is different from either of the above. Flowers range from white to pink and rose or shadings of all three in the same flower.

Petals are reflexed, giving the waxy blooms an exotic appearance

Cyclamen grows from a tuber, much as a tuberous begonia does, but nurserymen offer seedlings or potted plants already in bloom. Use them to replace begonias that go out of bloom.

CYCLAMEN IS tender to frost, but inland gardeners who try them find them more resistant to cold than an earlier generation gave them credit for.

And where winters are too cold for them, put several puts indoors to brighten your days.

HOME AND GARDEN tools are one of the hig points of making gardening fun. The scene is at Wright's Nursery, but in all of the many nurse ies throughout the central county, expert advice and choice products are available to green thu nbers. —Sun photo by Dave Ogden.

Handy Redwood Now on Display

Natural warmth and vibrant color have helped make redwood one of America's favorite building materials. When visiting home developments during National Home Week take note of the versatility of redwood for both indoor and outdoor applications.

Redwood is used for handsome accent walls, enhancing the attractiveness of other walls and furnishings. Redwood panels and cabinets impart a rich, inviting look to kitchens and breakfast nooks. Outdoors, redwood is the popular choice for siding, patio shelters, fencing and decking.

Redwood blends perfectly with other materials, and offers long-range upkeep economies. It resists weather and moisture and contains natural preservatives which make it uniquely resistant to insects.

Homes in all price levels on display during NATIONAL HOME WEEK will feature redwood beveled siding. Some builders paint exterior redwood while others leave it in its natural crimson tone. Redwood can be left unpainted without harm and will, in time, age gracefully to a driftwood grey. However, it takes and holds paints or finishes better than most materials.

Worth noting is that redwood siding possesses valuable insulating properties. The wood's large percentage of air-filled cells resists passage of heat from one side of the siding to the other, and thus adds to interior comfort.

Redwood grows only along a narrow belt of northern California coastal land. It is logged under a sustained yield program by such major producers as the Simpson Redwood Company, Arcata, California.

This far-sighted program of harvesting only over-mature and slow-growing trees while providing the best growing conditions for young seedlings, assures a continued supply.

Feed Lawns Now To Green Them For Winter Cold

Here is what area gardeners should be doing this week:

Lawns will benefit by feeding now to green them up for winter. You can set the cutting blades on your mower to cut closer as cool weather approaches.

Snails and slugs become more active as cool weather comes on. Bait to stop them before they get a foothold.

Use soil conditioners now to break up compacted areas. Work the soil to the condition you want it and mix the conditioner in to keep it that way.

Clean up spent annuals in your garden and burn them. Check with your nurseryman about winter annuals to take their place.

Plant perennials from nursery flats for bloom next spring.

Iris Looks Great Casually Potted Around the House

Gay expanses of graceful, bowing tulips signify Holland to many. However here in California we have successfully adopted the lovely spring-blooming bulbs as our own. And now is the time, says the California Association of Nurserymen, to select and plant tulips for next year.

The use of these hardy, long-stemmed beauties are many: as container plants, for walk or lawn edging, in large patches or around trees or shrubs they are lovely. The Dutch display their tulips in great fields of contrasting or blending colors and, although small gardens limit the space for bulbs, home owners can follow this example as area allows. Tulip plantings are most effective when drifts of two or three dozen bulbs are planted together.

When used as edgings for walks or lawns, tulips lend a formal note in contrast to the effect achieved by mixing flowers of uneven height and bloom size.

Darwin and Cottage tulips are the most popular variety in California. They provide the widest range of colors and are best suited to our mild winters. Parrots are also popular varieties for their unusual appearance.

Darwins are large, egg-shaped flowers on 30 inch stems and come in many colors. The Cottage type of tulip, with pointed petals, offers the widest color range: white, reds, pinks and yellows. Parrot tulips are exotic looking because of their frilled petals, brilliant colors and distinctive markings.

Although these three varieties of tulips do well in our mild winter areas, they will provide even finer flowers if they are refrigerated for two weeks prior to planting.

Tulip bulbs should be planted in moist soil, two and one-half times as deep as the bulb is wide and 4 or 5 inches part in eight groups or rows. In warmer areas it is advisable to plant bulbs somewhat deeper. Although the ground for the bulbs should be enriched, no fertilizer should touch the bulb. Organic material touching the bulb can burn it.

A good method of avoiding bulb burn is to place bone meal in the planting hole and then put a thin layer of soil over the bone meal before placing the bulb down.

Since bulbs which receive proper care can easily be kept from year to year, the California Association of Nurserymen suggests the home gardener give tulips the same good care after bloom that they receive before bloom.

Bulb Roots Are Favored By Gardeners

The first craze for bulb-rooted flowers swept Europe during the seventeenth century and certainly the beauty of the flowers offered a solid foundation for this enthusiasm. Bulb-rooted flowers are not only lovely but they are dependable and undemanding as well.

Dutch Iris have retained their popularity through the centuries, becoming especially popular on the Pacific Coast since the second World War.

And as the enthusiasm for these exciting members of the iris family has grown, many new varieties have been produced in a wider range of colors. The California Association of Nurserymen says these new varieties as well as the old favorites are now available in quantity at nurseries.

Descriptions of bulbous iris tend to be rather complicated and certainly not at all adequate because the variegated forms differ in shape as well as color of markings. Repairing to the ancient adage of "one picture being worth a thousand words," many nurserymen have full-color illustrations and photographs of the iris in full bloom.

From these you may choose your color scheme with full authority. You may also choose with assurance because bulbs are so reliable, you can count on your blooms to be duplicates of those in the photographs.

Dutch Iris come in solid shades of blue, yellow and white. The variegated forms include many shades of these hues, plus some related colors such as bronze, yellowish greens and mauve.

These attractive members of the iris family make excellent cut flowers and the wide range of colors makes decorating with them easy and pleasurable. The flowers should be cut when the first spot of color shows, for longest indoor bloom; they will open in water overnight. Leaves should not be taken at the time the flowers are cut.

The reason for cutting only the flowers and not the leaves is that the next year's success is dependent upon the plant retaining as much nourishment in the bulb as possible. If the leaves are cut off, the plant will have less food to store up.

In landscaping, Dutch Iris are particularly well-suited when used in combination with other bulbs and with taller plants behind them for background. Tulips and ranunculus in either contrasting or complimentary hues are wonderfully suited for pairing with Dutch Iris. Great success can be attained with such bulb combinations, if the home gardener selects varieties and plants with the thought of lengthening the spring blooming season.

Dutch Iris are very effective planted as borders with other plants; annuals, perennials or shrubs. Taler green plants provide a wonderful background to the light bright butterfly-shaped flowers. Some suggested plants for use with Dutch Iris bulbs are candytuft, Shasta Daisies and clarkia.

Once put in the ground, 3 or 4 inches deep and about 6 inches apart, the bulbs may be left in the ground for years in warm winter regions. If they are removed at the end of the blooming season, they should not be kept out of the ground more than 2 or 3 months.

These undemanding bulbs flourish in well drained, porous soil and in full sun. In cold areas, such as mountain regions, a deep mulch is best laid over the planted area to keep the bulbs warm.

Hyacinths Show Special Talents For Adaptation

Hyacinths have a special talent for adapting themselves to either formal or informal settings. Their rich, heady fragrance makes them ideal for placing in scattered drifts throughout the garden. Moreover, the lovely bulbs have proven highly valuable used in formal beds for over three hundred years.

The California Association of Nurserymen notes that early blooming hyacinths have been placed with equal success in the foreground of shrub borders, in individual masses and in small random drifts. The most familiar members of the family are the hybrids of hyacinthus orientals which the Dutch bulb growers have developed from plants originating near the Mediterranean.

During their wild craze for bulbs of all types during the sixteenth century, these Dutch growers often paid fantastic sums for each bulb. Today our blubs, at reasonable prices, are far superior to these ancestral hyacinths.

Blooming in large, oblong clusters of tiny flowerlets, Hyacinths are available in many shades of blues, purples, reds, pinks and in yellow and white. Among the popular named varieties are some standards in each color range. Some of the better known varieties in the blue-purple range are the light blue Bismarck, the appropriately named King of the Lilacs, the violet-blue King of the Blues and the deep blue Grand Maitre.

In the pink-red range are the rosy-red Dame d'Honneur, the carmine-rose La Victoire, the crimson Robert Stiger and the variegated rose and white Hjalmer Branting. City of Haarlem, named for the town which is the center of the hyacinth breeding area of Holland, is a pure yellow hyacinth. Among the lovely whites are L'Innocence and LaGrandesse.

Other members of the hyacinth family are the Dutch Roman and French Roman Hyacinths and the Azure Hyacinth. The first two have small flowers and force easily in mid-winter. The miniature Azure Hyacinths are wonderful additions to the rock garden.

Right now is the time to plant the hardy hyacinths. They should be set about five inches deep on a two inch layer of sand (to improve drainage) and surrounded and covered over with a light, enriched soil mixture. A combination of sand and bone meal has proven very successful as soil for hyacinths. Organic material, like manure, can damage bulbs if it touches them. Regardless of the pattern of planting, formal or informal, hyacinths should be set at least six inches apart to allow for ultimate growth.

Gardeners in warm winter areas should use caution in watering, both before and after planting. Watering before the root system has had some opportunity to develop often results in short-stemmed flowers. Many gardeners in warm winter areas find it desirable to lay some mulch over the planting area to keep the ground cool.

Hyacinth bulbs should be taken out of the ground each year and stored until the fall planting season. After the flowers and leaves have become brown (not merely yellowed), the gardener should cut the tops off about four inches from the ground, then remove, dry and store the bulbs in sawdust or sand.

WATER SOFTENERS

Water softener units will be standard equipment in many of the homes on display during national home week and generally they will be found installed between the inlet pipe or meter and the hot water heater

Home Should Adapt to Changes in the Family

Home buyers today are looking for features in their houses that anticipate changing activities in family life as small children grow into big ones.

That's why home builders in this area, exhibiting their newest models during the current National Home Week celebration, have planned homes that serve both generations, giving a share of independence and privacy to parents and children, both for the present and the future.

In an increasing number of new homes being built in this area, builders are showing their careful advance planning for changing family needs by providing for homewide telephone service.

This means concealed telephone wiring in the walls and an ample number of built-in telephone outlets throughout the premises. These outlets provide not only for present telephone needs, but also for anticipated requirements as family living patterns change.

Outlets in a youngster's room would probably not be utilized at once, but will be after the few short years it takes to grow into a conversational teenager.

Without any major installation work, the teenager can have a phone of his or her own with corresponding privacy, as well as peace and quiet for the family.

Homewide telephone service benefits parents as well as the children. For example, a bedside extension that lies within easy reach gives a person a sense of security, particularly when other members of the family are away.

Privacy, step-saving and convenience in the event of illness, particularly where bedrooms are upstairs, are other important considerations. An extension in much used work areas such as the kitchen saves hours of time and hundreds of steps in planning and preparing meals and organizing the day's activities.

Many builders have included two or more outlets in a given room, to provide for different furniture arrangements by the present or a future owner. And, with such outlets already in place, it is easy and economical to add a phone in the workshop, den, playroom or patio.

It is not only the new home builder or buyer who can benefit from concealed wiring and numerous telephone outlets. The advantages can be obtained in remodeling projects in older homes as well.

For example, if the kitchen is going to be modernized, plans for the kitchen phone should be included in the original blueprints.

Your local builder or achitect or your local telephone business office will be glad to give advice on location, selection of the type of phone.

Decorating counsel can also be obtained on choosing a color telephone to blend or contrast with the projected decor.

Fall Colors Are Reflected in Home Decor

Pyracantha is Really A 'Firethorn' Beauty

"Firethorn" is the common name meant to encompass the Pyracantha family. Bright red berries originally gave the "fire" to the name; now there are coral berries as well. As for "thorn," the thorny members have been joined by new varieties minus spines. But though the name no longer fits the entire family, firethorns are among the best selling berried shrubs in the state.

Their popularity is based on versatility and ease of care. Pyracanthas, placed in full sun, tolerate neglect; they need little watering or fertilizing and only need pruning for special purposes. As espaliers on walls or trellises, for ground covers or for hedges, the lovely evergreen berried shrubs have taken an increasingly important place in California gardens.

The California Association of Nurserymen recommends the coccines species as the hardiest of pyracanthas. This species is equally successful a a rounded bush of about 8 to 10 feet or climbing to 20 feet against a wall. There are two varieties, the red-berried Government Red and the orange-berried lalandii.

A more prostrate habit characterizes the crenato-serrata species. These useful shrubs rarely reach more than 6 feet, but they spread to about 10 feet in width. The berries of this shrub are particularly long-lasting and range from orange to coral in hue.

Automation Starts at Your Home

This may surprise you, but you have one of the earliest examples of automation right in your own home.

It's the control system that automatically regulates the operations of your home heating or air conditioning system.

Engineers of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company—the firm that developed America's first home thermostat more than 70 years ago—point out that a home temperature control system utilizes the same fundamental engineering principle that is the heart of highly-sophisticated and complex automation systems widely used in industry today.

Properly Planted Shade Trees Can Make Difference

There's a simple trick in planting shade trees, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

Plant them at some distance to the west of the place you want shade, slightly north of due west.

IF YOU PLANT the tree, or trees, right over the spot, the shade will fall to the east of it in the afternoon.

The hottest part of the summer day usually is in mid and late afternoon, when the sun's rays slant considerably.

Plant the shade tree far enough to the west so the slanted rays will be intercepted and the shade will fall where you want it.

FOR SHADE DIRECTLY over the outdoor living area in midday, when the sun is at its zenith, the shade tree should be planted at the edge of the area, but not where an outdoor fireplace will scorch leaves on the lower branches.

The same rules hold true for shade on a terrace or patio.

If the terrace is on the east side of the house only the directly overhead sun needs to be screened off because the house will shade the terrace in the afternoon.

IN THIS CASE, the shade tree can be right beside the terrace to guard against mid-day sun.

But if the terrace is on the west side of the house, two trees may be needed, one at some distance to the west, in order to block the hot afternoon sun and one close to the terrace to intercept the sun's direct rays at mid-day and up to three o'clock or so in the afternoon.

Shade trees can make a difference of five to ten degrees in the temperature of the outdoor living area or on the terrace.

THEY MUST BE planted in the right locations to achieve the best results. Consult with your nurseryman.

A difference of five to ten degrees on a hot summer day means the difference between comfort and discomfort.

These suggestions for locating shade trees also can be used to make various rooms inside the home more comfortable by shading one or more windows and the wall of the house that face the hot afternoon sun.

EDUCATIONAL IMPACT

Linked into the celebration of National Home Week, there are hundreds of contests in public schools and at other organized community levels. These range from model building through essay writing on the values of home ownership and advances in design and construction methods. Generally, it is accepted, that National Home Week has had a significant, nationwide educational impact.

Try Sunken Bathtub If You Want to Make Splash

If you can't make a big splash with a swimming pool in your home, you can always make a little splash—with a sunken bath. And if you don't see what you want in the exhibit homes during National Home Week — and you probably will—just ask a builder about them.

Builders agree that a step-down bath or plunge can give distinction to a home, and contrary to popular belief, they say, this feature is not a luxury except in appearance.

Technical details of construction should be left to the builder, but ideas for style, design and layout can be the individual home buyer's, provided the builder finds them workable.

The ceramic tile used for the plunge can be the same as that used for the bathroom, or it can be of contrasting color to make it a center of interest in the design.

Like swimming pools, most plunges are equipped with chrome hand rails for safety's sake, and, as an additional safety factor, grab bars of ceramic tile can be installed. Towel racks running the length of the tub can be built into the wall.

Dimensions of the step-down bath will depend on the size of bathroom and pocketbook but one no larger than the present bathtub can give a pleasant touch of self-indulgence.

Heating, Cooling Systems Are New Boon to Homes

Visitors to National Home Week exhibit homes will find heating and cooling systems vastly improved over those of a few years ago.

Controlled comfort is now the basic goal sought by careful builders. In this they are aided by standards established by the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association.

Compared with other types of home equipment, such as kitchen cabinets, colored plumbing fixtures, planters and other attractive things built into today's houses, there is nothing very glamorous or flashy about the equipment and duct work that makes up the heating system. But these latter items are highly important to family comfort—summer or winter.

In the "living comfort" situation, it is the skill of your builder and his heating contractor that makes the difference. Insulation plays a big role here.

Here are some of the factors your Home Builder strives for in heating and cooling today's new home:

Temperature control (no great variations in room temperatures during periods when the system is on and off).

Equal comfort in all rooms.

Warm floors during the heating season.

Equal body comfort in the various air levels in a room (whether you are sitting or standing).

Continuous comfort (no hot and cold blasts). With a good system, you should be unconscious that a heating or cooling system is operating.).

Fresh air, ventilation and controlled humidity.

Look for these characteristics when you see what present day Home Builders are offering in the National Home Week exhibit houses in your community.

BOON TO HAY FEVER VICTIMS

Experiments conducted by Dr. Orren D. Chapman, professor of bacteriology, New York State University of Medicine at Syracuse, N. Y., have shown that air conditioning reduced the pollen count in a test room by 98 per cent over the outdoors at the height of the ragweed pollen season. Nearly 11,000,000 Americans suffer from hay fever and other pollen-caused afflictions. The building industry reports more homes on exhibit during national home week this year have air conditioning, or are equipped for air cooling, than ever before.

Cancer Study Outlined

Contra Costa County is one of five Northern California counties to be included in a major study of the causes of cancer.

The county branch of the American Cancer Society will aid the study, which was discussed recently by Dr. Lester Breslow, State Department of Public Health director at an annual dinner meeting.

A special guest epidemiologist, Dr. John Lee of London, England also spoke in praise of the survey designed to discover why some people may be more likely to get cancer than others.

THE SURVEY will involve interviews with 2155 families of the county over a six-year period, and will begin throughout the county, as in other selected parts of the nation.

Dr. Frederick A. Pellegrin, president of the county branch, reviewed the year's accomplishments and future programs of research, lifesaving public education, and service to cancer patients, at the annual meeting.

He said that in addition to raising a record amount for the attack on cancer via research, the county society last year gave service to 198 patients, distributed 1874 dressings where needed, and assisted 695 persons inquiring for cancer facts.

Since early detection and treatment is the only protection against cancer until a research breakthrough, the society's lifesaving public education program included during the year 109 film showings and educational programs with speakers.

IN THIS AIM in Contra Costa during the past year, 13,984 pieces of educational literature were distributed, 2072 newspaper articles appeared, 1090 radio announcements or programs were broadcast and one TV program was aired.

Special groups reached during the educational program this past year were industrial firms including 5790 employees; 33 schools for 1030 students; 3 colleges for 1293 students; 34 clubs and organizations for 4962 members and in two theatres for 2400 persons.

A total of 600 volunteers assisted the county cancer-society in conducting its program.

The president paid tribute to Walnut Creek's Mesdames Frank Jones, Floyd Foster, D. N. Manzer, Harold L. Morris, H. Holt Parsons, Ed. Peterson and John Quartarolo; Lafayette's Mrs. Minnie Williams and Mrs. Harold Bloom; Orinda's Mesdames Robert L. Jordan and K. A. Chance.

Rod's Revokes

Something New Added: Bridge, TV Tangle

By ROD ERNST (AT 3-8569)

On Sunday, October 18 at 3:30 p.m. over the ABC-TV network, (and every Sunday thereafter at the same time) America's No. 1 card game will make its official television debut as the new half-hour series of "tournament" rubber bridge matches — "Championship Bridge with Charles Goren."

"Championship Bridge" pits one pair of America's greatest bridge players (all Lifemasters) against another pair, playing regular rubber bridge. The players deal out the cards and play them just as dealt. No hands are rigged.

Three full hands are played on the show. (In some cases more than three hands are played, but only three are graphically on view, play-by-play; the others are capsuled.) The pair with the most points at the end of the half-hour wins $1,000. The losing pair gets $500. There is a bonus of $250 for a small slam. $500 for a grand slam. The winning pair stays on and remains for the next series, and then ad infinitum, until defeated.

As the cards are dealt out (a four camera techinque is used), the camera dollies in tight on each hand so that you, the viewer (Kibitzing the hand) can see the cards and make the point count, just as easily as if you were standing right behind the player in an actual room.

After the first player has made his declaration, the camera moves to the second player, and we repeat this process until the bidding has ceased. Then the play begins, and the camera takes a position right behind the declarer. You, the vewer, can see every card in his hand and plainly see every card in the dummy.

You play the hand with the declarer. As every card is played and dropped on the table, you can identify the cards and follow the procedures with utmost clarity.

While the players are bidding and playing, they are allowed to comment and talk naturally (each player has his own mike); and in a special booth, watching the play is our bridge analyst, Charles Goren, plus the M.C. Alex Dreier, who are also interspersing comments and making remarks pertinent to the bids and the play.

As the play gets under way, you hear a play by play report from our commentators.

At the end of the bidding, we cut to a chart and our Mr. Goren makes whatever comments he deems necessary. As these comments are made, we animate some of the hands, suits, or individual members of a suit to make whatever point is stressed. At the end of play, we again cut back to the chart and again Charles Goren, America's foremost player, gives a "rap-up" of the hand and the play. Again we animate whatever is necessary in the chart to make the points he emphasizes.

At the end of the show, Goren dispenses the awards and makes apropriate remarks. Alex Dreier "Wraps-up" the whole show and specifies who the new competitors will be for the next week.

This then is the physical "set-up" of "Championship Bridge." It does not describe the spontaneity, the humor, the chagrin of a slam bid and not made, the exquisite delight of a completed finesse, the mixture of personalities playing each other under such unique circumstances, these and so much more to be seen.

Hope you will all be watching.

FOR A PENNY?

Used to be, a fellow could buy all sorts of things for a penny. Toys. Candy. Apples. Then came inflation, and the price of everything went up, up, up.

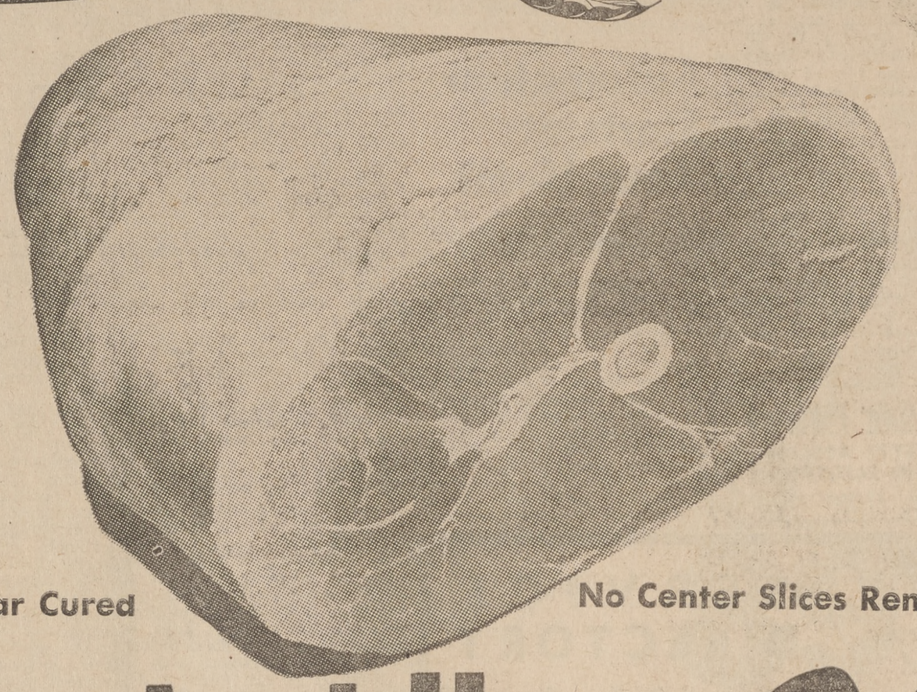

Everything, that is, except the price of your "East Bay MUD" water. That went down, down, down. Take the last 30 years. Price of most things doubled during that period. Put another way, it means that your penny now buys 50% less of everything than it did in 1929. But (ahem!) when it comes to "East Bay MUD" water, your penny now buys 20% more than it did 30 years ago!

How much water will a penny buy today? Well, it'll buy a glass a day every day for a year. Which, in terms of dollars, means you enjoy the lowest water rates in the Bay Area. So go ahead, Sonny, spend your penny on a bargain. Think you can drink 365 glasses of pure mountain water?

Another bargain: free booklets about water. Write 2130 Adeline Street, Oakland 23.

Concert Guild Starts Ticket Campaign Here

Fresh from a minor contro-Concert Guild has launched a versy regarding the selection ofmembership drive aimed at sea site for the coming season'scuring 2,500 paid subscribers. presentations, the Contra Costa The guild will open its sixth season December 12 with a presentation of Tschaikowsky's complete "Nutcracker" by the San Francisco Ballet and a full orchestra.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. William Page, president and a founder of the guild, all performances this season will be staged at the new Creative Arts Theatre in Pittsburg, where officials agreed to offer the building to the guild free of charge.

Because in its first five years the guild rented an Antioch theatre, persons in Antioch felt the series should be continued there.

But, Mrs. Page said, Antioch High School District trustees tagged a $75 per performance rental on the newly completed Antioch High School Auditorium.

SHE REPORTED that some Antiochans complained that Pittsburg had offered the theatre at no cost, and the matter was taken to District Attorney John Nejedly and Attorney General Stanley Mosk.

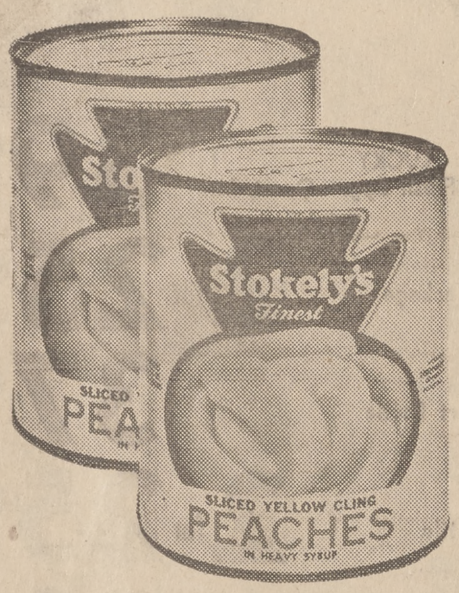

Locally, tickets may be obtained from: In Pleasant Hill, Mrs. Myron Pollycove, YE 4-5232; in Walnut Creek, Mrs. N. R. Legge, YE 5-4778; and in Lafayette, Mrs. Walter Ury, AT 4-4231.

WC Hotel Owed Title to Rising TV, Stage Actor

By NORMAN COLBY

Both the Las Palmas Hotel and the man who named it have disappeared from Walnut Creek, but the man himself can be seen just about every week on your television screen.

Jeff DeBenning, 39, became a part owner of the El Curtola Hotel in 1948, and the "Las Palmas" title he decided upon lasted until the aging building was demolished this year.

Progress killed the Las Palmas, but progress has become the trademark of DeBenning since those days.

HE GRADUATED from Diablo Valley College and San Francisco State College, was "discovered" in the Pasadena Playhouse and the Albuquerque Civic Theater, got successful doing Hollywood television parts at $150 a day, and hit the big time with "Say Darling," a recent hit play in San Francisco.

An agent who saw the moustached, 6-foot, 200-pounder do his earlier acting chores, told him, "I think you're big enough and ugly enough that I can settle you in Hollywood."

DeBenning explained, "A guy with a face like mine has a much better chance of success and making money in Hollywood than another Tyrone Power, because there are so many of them."

"They need good character men. Some day I would like to get parts like Lee J. Cobb or Frederick March, but meanwhile I'm riding the range from 8 a.m. to p.m., five days a week, no Saturdays or Sundays, and not much overtime.

"I'VE PICKED up credits in 35 television shows, usually playing the 'heavy,' pointing guns at people, getting killed sometimes several times a week, and once had a good fight with Peter Whitney in 'Rough Riders.' He finished me off with a knife."

DeBenning also has been in Highway Patrol, Tombstone Territory, Bat Masterson, McKensies Raiders, Tightrope, Sunset Strip, etc.

"In Say Darling, I played the 'angel' Morty Krebs, a soap manufacturer who ends up telling the people the only way to produce a Broadway show is by merchandising it, packaging it, and so forth. It was a good part, he said.

"Now I'm headed back to Albuquerque, where I'll play the 'Magnificent Yankee' (Oliver Wendell Holmes) and maybe later I'll be able to get with Johnny Desmond when he makes a movie of the life of Russ Colombo."

Progress was not easy for DeBenning.

DeBENNING remembers his grandfather was a showboat minstrel man on the Mississippi, and his dad, Frank DeBenning traveled in entertainment circles and was first to show the 'Miracle of the Motion Picture' in the western United States.

Jeff and his brother, Arlyn, pumped the player piano in those days, later formed a night club team in the Bay Area during the war, performed at the old "Red Mill" in Oakland, worked with the follies in Los Angeles, and finally went into business.

The business took Jeff from San Leandro where he worked as a bartender to Walnut Creek, managing the hotel and various bars. His dad had lived here since 1945, but later moved to Placerville.

Both Arlyn and Jeff entered Diablo Valley College (then Contra Costa Junior College) and helped put on a "sort of burlesque show" which went over big with the students, but less so with the administrators.

AFTER GETTING their degrees in speech and drama, Jeff and Arlyn parted company, Arlyn going on the far eastern entertainment circuit, and Jeff beginning his career in Pasadena.

DeBenning said, "My wife, Kathryn and I, have been living quietly in an apartment house in the center of Hollywood, easy distance to the studios. No wild parties or anything like that.

"I used to think they were holding out when the guys who made it wouldn't tell their secret—the secret of how to get into Hollywood. But now I know there is no secret—you just work

Fire has claimed an average of 11,602 lives each year during the past eight years. Of this total, an estimated 30 per cent were children. The Hartford Fire Insurance Company's Junior Fire Marshall program each year instructs some four million youngsters in fire prevention practices that help combat this tragic loss.

Men Get Course In CD Methods

Dr. Glen Kent, chief assistant health officer, announced that the entire sanitation division has just completed an intensive 15 hour training course in radiological meter operation.

The course culminated last Friday when field exercises were conducted at the Concord Civil Defense headquarters.

Dr. Kent added that problems of radiological health can be just as vital in peace time as in disaster because of increased use of radioactive materials by local industries.

The course was organized and conducted by Bill Rummell, a staff sanitarian who is a recent graduate of the radiological instructors' training course given under the auspices of the California State Disaster Office.

Other instructors in the course were Bob Crothers, air sanitation director of the health department; Dr. John Gauld, a resident physician in public health; and Will Perry, Contra Costa County's director of civil defense. Assisting the instructors was Mrs. Barbara Burton, RADEF chief of Contra Costa County.

The Contra Costa County Sanitation Division is the first in the state to complete this course

Tom McMurrow, director of the Division of Sanitation, himself a student in the course, stated that "This is only the beginning. I intend to develop a radiological 'know how' in my staff which will enable them to cope with future problems that may arise."

Cancer Meet Calls Leaders

Contra Costa cancer control leaders will attend the 1959 annual state meeting next week at the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley, Dr. Frederick A. Pellegrin, president of the county branch, said.

Dr. A. R. Reinke of Concord, county vice president, will be program chairman for the four-day conference, Wednesday through Saturday. Dr. Pellegrin will be a session leader.

Volunteers Training For Muir Fund Drive

Volunteer "hospital builders, on the job before the carpenters," are participating in training meetings conducted by Mrs. Frank Young, membership division chairman in John Muir Memorial Hospital's building fund drive.

These "builders" will visit residents contacted in advance by mail regarding Hospital Association voting memberships.

Voting memberships entitle voting for future hospital board members, so that interested citizens can elect trustees directing policies of the non-profit, community-owned hospital. These memberships may be taken in honor of a loved one whose name will be inscribed in a book to be displayed at the new hospital, according to Mrs. Young.

"FOR JOHN MUIR Memorial Hospital, this is a 'once-in-a-lifetime' appeal, not to be repeated with those who have given," Mrs. Young emphasizes. "In this drive, people are not being asked for donations to help someone else; they are being given the opportunity to join in making good hospital care available when needed for themselves and their families."

Working with Mrs. Young are her vice chairman, Mrs. Hal C. Bates of Lafayette and area chairmen including Mesdames Ralph Becker and Wendell Parker of Pleasant Hill, N. T. Koerner and Raymond Righetti of Lafayette, H. G. Preece of Moraga, and Louis G. Madsen of Walnut Creek.

Among volunteers already attending these sessions are:

Mesdames Paul Pratt, Frank Burkett, R. G. Pelusi, Sanford Marlor, Robert Curtis, W. K. Grogan, E. William Palmer, John McCorkle, Lyle T. Wilcox, Norman Burkhart, Thede Maurier, and L. M. Brantly, Walnut Creek captains.

MESDAMES VAL Senausky, H. W. Simonsen, James Hall, jr., E. W. Thompson, James Baird, R. E. Elliott, George Hartwig, W. H. Zepp, Eugene Hatfield, James Rettig, Paul Jacobus, J. E. McClintick, Michael M. Jason, Harold Curtis, Clyde H. Behr, E. W. Kelley, jr., Milton M. Rowley, Buck Johnson, William Du Bois, Ernest Jager, Robert Leland, Lloyd R. Tye, Henry A. White, Alice Osmundson, and Janet A. Luher, Walnut Creek lieutenants.

Mesdames William De Love, jr., Gerald Semrau, Arthur C. Scheu, G. W. O'Leary, Peter Ponting, Norman Hinck, Don W. Bates, Richard Emory, A. M. Clapp, A. T. Lindsy, I. T. Ranker, and R. Henrici, Lafayette.

Mesdames Leland S. Connors, J. W. Meierdiercks, Bruce R. Marbenke, Allen F. Faber, and Charles Evans, Alamo and Danville.

MESDAMES Donald Coffin, Craig Harper, Richard Wilson, Arthur King, Earl McLain, and James Phelps, Pleasant Hill.

Although business and commerce solicitation has been deferred until after October 5 to avoid conflict with the United Crusade drive, solicitation in membership and other divisions of John Muir Memorial Hospital's building fund drive is continuing, explained a spokesman from the hospital headquarters office, 1353 Locust Street, Walnut Creek.

While the greatest property loss from fire in the U. S. is in industry, the greatest loss of life is in home fires. Today, elementary school youngsters ages 8 to 10 volunteer as Junior Fire Marshals to work in preventing home fires.

Largest industrial loss from fire was in 1953 at Livornia, Mich. Damage amounted to $50 million.

Nancy Kelly Play Opens October 12

Mail orders are now being received for the new Nancy Kelly comedy, "A Mighty Man Is He," for its pre-Broadway engagement of three weeks at the Geary, San Francisco, beginning Monday, October 12. (Matinees Wednesday and Sunday.)

"A Mighty Man Is He" by Arthur Kober, credited with the Broadway hits, "Having Wonderful Time" and "Wish You Were Here," in collaboration with George Oppenheimer, author of "Here Today," is a fast-paced marital merry-go-round with the husband riding high and the sagacious wife augmented by two flight-of-loves hard on his heels.

NANCY KELLY, the understanding wife with a sense of humor, has been a Broadway star ever since her childhood appearance with Gertrude Lawrence in "Susan and God."

Outstanding in her career were Clifford Odets' "The Big Knife" and "The Country Girl," Wolcott Gibbs' "Season in the Sun" and Maxwell Anderson's "The Bad Seed."

Screenwise, she has starred in "Jessie James" and "Stanley and Livingstone," among others, and her television shows include Studio One, Suspicion, Climax and Alcoa Theatre.

"A MIGHTY Man Is He" is directed by Reginald Denham who staged one of Miss Kelly's greatest successes, "The Bad Seed." Other Broadway hits directed by Denham are his own "Ladies in Retirement," "Janus," "Dial M for Murder" and "The Gazebo."

Edward Joy and Diana Green, Broadway producers, are presenting this new comedy and have engaged a distinguished cast to support Miss Kelly, including Gene Blakely, Polly Rowles, Diana Van Der Vlis, Doug Lambert, Claud Allister, John Cecil Holm, Nancy Cushman and Kimetha Laurie.

Tickets may be had at the Geary box office starting Monday.

Choral Group Working for Holiday Event

Diablo Valley Choral held its September business meeting and monthly luncheon at the home of Mrs. R. F. Murbach, 801 Cumberland Drive, Walnut Creek. Luncheon was served in the garden.

At the business meeting, plans for the coming season were discussed. Fall rehearsals, held weekly in the Walnut Creek Presbyterian Church, will be devoted to work on music for the annual Christmas concert.

Acknowledgment has been made by the Las Palmas School for the Retarded of a check for $200, given by the choral after its spring concert in May.

Membership chairman of the singing group is Mrs. L. W. Loughlin. Any Diablo Valley women interested in singing with the group may obtain information from her.
